STOP-OVER FIGHT BEFORE BOARD

Chamber of Commerce Directors to Meet.

President Paxon Will Place Before the Board at Its Meeting Wednesday Letter of the Railroads—Roads' Refusal No Surprise.

To be convinced that the railroads have not yet heard the last of stop-overs one has only to talk with the business men of the city who have been pushing this matter up to this time. In fact, it would seem that the fight is really just beginning. Many expressed the opinion before the roads made their answer that stop-overs would not be granted until the city as a whole took more drastic action than has hitherto marked the campaign, and to these the roads' refusal came as a matter of no surprise. To these, too, now comes the conviction that the real fight is just now about to be ushered in.

Directors Will Meet.

On Wednesday the matter will be brought before the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, who have up to this time taken no official action further than to instruct President F. J. Paxon to use his best efforts to secure for the city the privilege. Mr. Paxon stated Sunday night that he will carry before the directors at their meeting Wednesday the communication which he received from the roads Saturday. He declined to state what action he believed would be taken. He said that he had no way of knowing how the direcors will view the roads' action.

It is known, however, that this matter is one which has been receiving considerable attention from the directors for some time past, and, together with a number of the city's other most prominent men, a number of the directors have stated that the fight for stop-overs should not be given over until Atlanta is granted this privilege which other southern cities, some of them of far less importance than Atlanta, are now enjoying.

As to just what action the directors will take nothing definite can be learned at this time, but those in a position to know intimate that instead of quitting the fight, it is more than probable that the body, as a whole, will enter the contest. If this is done, the roads, it is predicted, will find themselves facing an even more formidable adversary than in the past.

What Business Men Think.

A number of the city's most prominent business men were interviewed Sunday night, and practically without exception they expressed the opinion that the roads were not only not justified in their action in refusing the stop-overs, but that they failed to offer any real reason therefor. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that what the roads were pleased to term reasons were merely excuses, and some of them rather poor ones at that.

That the roads should bring forward nothing new in the shape of an excuse was apparently not a matter of surprise to those interviewed, as they seem to have been of the opinion before the refusal was made that, had the roads anything in the shape of an excuse better than had heretofore been offered, they would have exploited it without hesitation.

Might Have Been Expected.

"It is nothing more than might have been expected," said more than one of the men interviewed.

These men are of the opinion that the roads are not willing to make to the city anything in the shape of a concession which will inconvenience them in the least. They believe further that the roads have not, so far, believed that the city was enough in earnest to make a real fight on the matter, and that until they are actually forced into it, they will never give Atlanta stop-overs.

On the whole, the consensus of opinion of those seen was unquestionably that, having gone thus far in the matter, the city cannot afford to turn back.

They believe, as they have believed all along, that the city is being discriminated against by the roads; that the argument that the local roads are not responsible for stop-overs in Chattanooga is beside the mark since other roads are doing this for the Tennessee town; that the city has a right to expect and demand the same concession of the roads here, and that Atlanta will be well within her rights if she immediately begins to use any and every method which promises to wring from the roads what rightfully belongs to her.

36 ARE INJURED IN ALA. WRECK

Birmingham, Ala., June 5.—The southeastern limited on the Frisco system was wrecked this afternoon in Walker county, about 60 miles west of Birmingham, and thirty-six people were injured, six of them seriously.

The recent heavy rains are supposed to have undermined the track, as every car left the rails when the train rounded a curve near Tawney, Ala., at high speed. None of the cars turned over, but the track was torn up for a distance of 300 feet. The injured are being brought to Birmingham.

The score seriously injured are: J. R. Kemp, Dora, Ala., arm bruised; Scott Maxwell, Cordova, Ala., internally injured; Mrs. C. Deneen, Ensley, Ala., lacerations; F. P. LOT IS DONATED TO ALL SAINTS

Mrs. Richard Peters Makes Handsome Gift.

On the Lot on West Peachtree Street, Adjoining the Church, a Rectory and a Parish Hall Will Be Erected by the Congregation.

On Saturday Mrs. Richard Peters deeded to All Saints' the handsome lot on West Peachtree adjoining the church.

The lot is 100x200 feet, and is one of the most valuable on the entire street. On it will be erected a rectory and parish hall, the style of architecture and the building materials to be like that of the church, which is one of the most ornamentail in the city.

Mrs. Peters was the donor of the lot on which the church is built, that entire square being the property of Mrs. Peters and her children. Her gift is a timely and beautiful one, and is characteristic of Mrs. Peters' generous spirit and constant fidelity to her church and the work it performs.

She is one of Atlanta's pioneer women, and represents the splendid type of the old south from which the women of the new south may learn their lesson.

Since her school days she has been identified with Atlanta's philanthropic as well as church work and her recent gift is one most edifying and will prove most inspirational to the younger generation whose obligation it is to build the rectory and parish hall.

FLY FROM NEW YORK TO ST. LOUIS IN A BIPLANE? YES; THAT'S WHAT WILL HAPPEN WITHIN SIX WEEKS

Map of New York-Chicago-St. Louis flight. Photo showing Curtiss on his recent flight from Albany to New York and the aviator and his wife after receiving $10,000 check. Never in the history of heavier-than-air machines has there been so much excitement as now fills the rival shops of the bird men. The prize of $30,000 offered by The New York World for a flight from New York to St. Louis and the $25,000 purse offered by The New York Times and Chicago Post for a flight between the two cities have spurred on the Wrights and Curtiss and Hamilton to renewed energy. Curtiss will try for the prize, so will Hamilton, and the Wrights are expected to get in line in a few days. The complete details of the rules governing the flights have not been announced, but The World and Times have both said the effort must be made before October 31. Nothing in the history of the heavier-than-air machines has ever approached the importance of the contests that are now well under way.

STATE BANKERS ARRIVE TODAY FOR CONVENTION

Opening Session Will Be Held at the Kimball House Tomorrow Morning.

OVER 400 DELEGATES WILL ATTEND SESSIONS

From Outside States at Least Fifty Bankers Will Be Present, While Every Section of Georgia Will Contribute to Make This Meeting Largest in History of Association.

Representative bankers from all over Georgia and from other southern states will begin assembling in Atlanta today for the annual convention of the Georgia Bankers' Association, which will be in session at the Kimball House Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The members of the Atlanta Clearing House Association, whose guests the visiting bankers will be during their stay in this city, expect an attendance of at least 400 from the membership of the association, while other states will send a delegaion of about 50 bankers as guests of the association.

There are a number of bankers in the state who do not belong to the association, but they have all been sent urgent invitations to attend the meeting and many of them have accepted the invitation.

The local bankers have spared no pains to make this meeting the largest and most successful from every viewpoint that the Georgia Bankers' Association has ever held. The business program is one calculated to interest every banking man in the country, the questions for discussion are of vital interest to bankers and the speakers are some of the most brainy and talented men in the association.

The social program is one that it will rank in the history of the association as the most elaborate ever arranged for a similar occasion, and the entertainment to be afforded the guests during their two days' stay has been arranged without regard to expense.

The first session will be called to order by President A. P. Coles Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, and following the business session, the bankers will be taken for an automobile ride over the city, starting from the Kimball House at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

At 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the members of the association will be the guests of Mayor Robert F. Maddox at his country home, where an informal reception will be held.

Following the business session Wednesday the association will attend the baseball game at Ponce de Leon.

The crowning event of the meeting will be the banquet which will be given in the Kimball House Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Colonel Robert J. Lowry, president of the Lowry National bank, will act as toastmaster. Covers will be laid for 400 guests and it is a safe prediction that this banquet will be the most elaborate which the bankers have ever had.

Banquet a Feature.

The list of speakers at the banquet contains the names of some of the best-known after-dinner speakers in the state, and this fact, aside from the excellent menu which will be served, promises to be a feature of the entertainment that will be of much more than passing interest.

The speakers will be: Governor Joseph M. Brown, Mayor Robert F. Maddox, Eugene R. Black, Albert Howell, Jr., Rev. J. Ashby Jones, of Augusta; Roland Ellis and Oscar Dooly, of Macon.

The arrangements for the entertainment of the guests have been in charge of Frank Hawkins, of the Third National bank; Joseph T. Orme, vice president of the Lowry National bank, and

SCORES HUSBAND, THEN KILLS SELF

Failed to Love Her, She Writes Him.

Mrs. W. A. Heaton, of Tampa, Fla., Ends Her Life by Chloroform---Despondency Over Ill Health One Cause of the Deed.

"My whole life has been so stormy that really I can't believe that it is a sin to go this way."

This was the farewell message left a friend by Mrs. W. A. Heaton, 35 years old, of Tampa, Fla., who committed suicide in the Beck-Nell hotel, 22½ West Mitchell street, yesterday, by breathing chloroform. She had for a long while been addicted to the morphine habit, it is said, and despondency over ill health drove her to the deed.

Mrs. Heaton came to Atlanta several months ago from Tampa and had been under treatment at a local sanitarium. She boarded with Mrs. Ruth Tuggle at 17 Ashland avenue.

On Dreary Day She Ends Life.

On Sunday morning, when leaden skies overhead caused the world to look more dreary to her, Mrs. Heaton left her boarding house and rode into the city. With a bottle of chloroform concealed in her handbag she registered at the West Mitchell street hotel and immediately took the room assigned her.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon T. L. Becknell, proprietor of the hotel, who had, since Mrs. Heaton registered, noted that she had not once left her room, suspected that she was probably ill and in need of attention, and knocked on her door. Receiving no response, he turned the knob and discovered the door locked. After attempting to enter with a pass-key and finding that the inside latch had been thrown, a bell boy was lifted up by Mr. Becknell through the transom and the door opened from the inside.

Stretched upon the bed, with a towel over her face, lay Mrs. Heaton, dead. The odor of the drug filled the room, indicating to Mr. Becknell at once what his mysterious guest had done. He notified Coroner Donehoo and the police, whose investigation made apparent the fact that Mrs. Heaton had deliberately planned her death.

Her Farewell Message.

Lying on the table in the room were several farewell letters addressed to relatives. One of them was to Mrs. Tuggle, containing this remark:

"My whole life has been so stormy that really I can't believe that it is a sin to go this way."

Another letter, addressed to her husband at Tampa, from whom she had been separated for some time, criticised him for the lack of love he had shown to her and censured him on the charge of not ever having contributed to her support.

Mrs. Heaton, after bolting the door, placed a chair against it to further resist entrance from the outside. She emptied the bottle of chloroform on her handkerchief, spread it across her face, and over this she drew the towel. Her body was cold when discovered in this position by the hotel proprietor.

A jury empanelled by Coroner Donehoo at the undertaking parlors of Barclay & Brandon Company, sat in inquest over the body at 8 o'clock and returned a erdict of suicide. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

Mrs. Heaton was twice married. Her first husband was a Mr. Nash, of Tampa, by whom two children were born. A son two years old was born in the second union. The three survive her.

John W. Proctor Dead.

Monroe City, Mo., June 5.—John W. Proctor, father of Mrs. Alma P. Vaughn, who is under indictment for the murder of her husband, Professor John M. Vaughn, died here today, aged 76. His death is said to have been superinduced by grief over his daugh.'s arrest and the pending charges which she must face in the fall. He was said to have been worth $500,000 and was known as one of the leading Baptist churchmen of Missouri.

OFFICER ELDER HAS CLOSE CALL

Negro Highwayman Puts Gun in His Face.

Patrolman Knocked Weapon Out of His Hand --- Pockets of the Negro Were Found to Be Literally Lined With Money.

As Patrolmen J. H. Elder and Barton picked their way through a dark, muddy alley in the rear of No. 4 Engine house, located on North Pryor street, John Jones, a negro whose pockets were later found to be literally loaded down with money, thrust a big pistol in their faces.

Told to "Hold Up."

"Hold up, you!" cried Jones.

Elder was ahead of his brother officer and looked for the fraction of a second into the muzzle of the negro's gun, when with rare presence of mind, his hand went up and sent the weapon flying from Jones' hand.

His "blue steel" gone, Jones meekly surrendered and he was soon riding in the patrol wagon, handcuffed, to police headquarters.

When Turnkey Bayne searched the would-be highwayman, exactly $220.83 in green backs and silver were pulled from his pockets and from a money belt around his waist.

Where the Dusky Croesus came by this fortune is puzzling the police.

The two patrolmen had entered the alley, intending to investigate a reported blind tiger which was said to exist in the rear of 88 Ivy street. They entered from an alley on Ivy street at this number and were in an alley back of the engine house, when they encountered Jones.

Patrolmen Surprised.

According to Patrolman Elder, he saw Jones draw the pistol from his hip pocket a moment before the hold-up command came. They had seen three negroes walking in the alley before them, Jones stopping while the other two walked on out of the Pryor street exit, but at the time had not the faintest idea that Jones was waiting for a deadly purpose.

Jones will be arraigned in the police court this afternoon.

REV. S. R. BELK LEAVES FOR TRIP TO EUROPE

Popular Pastor Will Attend the World's Missionary Conference.

Dr. Belk has been chosen as one of the delegates from America to the conference, and after attending the convention he will make a tour of Ireland, England, France, Switzerland, and Italy. He has been given a vacation by his church, and will be away from home for two months.

During Dr. Belk's absence from the city his pulpit will be filled by Dr. J. F. French, of the First Methodist church, Atlanta; Dr. W. N. Ainsworth, president of the Wesleyan Female College, Macon; Dr. James E. Dickey, president of Emory; Dr. Joel Daves, presiding elder of Atlanta, and Bishop Candler.

Two Youths Drowned.

Tampa, Fla., June 5.—While bathing in Hillsborough river, near here this morning, Victor Fabler, aged 19, and his brother, Henry Fabler, 16 years, lost their lives. Victor was teaching his younger brother to swim and the latter had lost the wings with which he was attempting to swim. Laughingly declaring that he would teach Henry how to swim, the older brother ducked the younger one, who clutched him in a death grip so tight as not to permit either party release. A number of people were gathered on the shore of the river.

STAND-PATTERS HARD PRESSED

Iowa Insurgents After Cannon Men.

Congressmen Hull and Smith Are Bitterly Opposed for Renomination, and the Result Will Be Considered as Having National Bearing.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 5.—Active participants in the primary campaign, weary with almost ceaseless speech-making, were gla dto be strict sabbatarians today. Everywhere, however, the claims of the republican gubernatorial candidates, and those of the aspirants in the Seventh and Ninth congressional districts, were eagerly discussed.

In the Seventh and Ninth districts, where Congressmen Hull and Smith, respectively, are closely pressed by the "progressive" candidates, Judge Prouty and Attorney General Byers, and where the result will be considered as having a national bearing, the campaign will be waged up to the last moment before the primaries Tuesday. Both Hull and Smith, the latter particularly, as a member of the Cannon rules committee, are regarded by the "progressives" as standing for all that is reactionary.

The fight has been waged with great bitterness. Hull's friends think he will win on his record of work for the district. He is credited with bringing the army post and a new postoffice to Des Moines, as well as being an able "getter" generally in behalf of his constituents. Judge Prouty, in a speech last night, declared that Des Moines had received nothing that was not coming to it; that a democratic congressman could have secured all that Hull has, and he straigned his opponent with sarcastic vigor on his record on the tariff. Governor Carroll has completed an automobile spell-binding trip and claims he will win on Tuesday by a majority of 35,000. Warren Garst, the so-called progressive candidate, makes a similar claim.

RAILROADS PLAN THEIR DEFENSE

Chicago, June 5.—The legal corps of twenty-five western railroads will meet here tomorrow to devise a defense to the government's injunction suit against an increase in freight rates. Gardiner Lathrop, general solicitor for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, called the meeting, and he will be in charge. The railroad lawyers will choose special counsel to take charge of the defense, while they will assist.

President Ripley, of the Santa Fe; President Delano, of the Wabash; President Felton, of the Chicago-Western, and President Hughitt, of the Chicago and Northwestern, left here this morning for Washington to confer with President Taft in an effort to have the federal suit halted.

John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, declared today that the government's action could not be stopped without the greatest public indignation. Shippers are preparing for a busy time this week. On Tuesday commercial associations of nineteen cities will be represented at a meeting of the conference committee appointed at the shippers' convention on May 17.

On Wednesday the committee and the directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association will meet representatives of the railroads at the request of the latter.

Two Aviators Injured.

Versailles, France, June 5.—An aeroplane carrying Maurice Farman, brother of Henry Farman, and George Bensancon, secretary of the Aero Club of France, capsized here today. The machine was close to the ground when the accident occurred, and the aviators, although they fell with considerable force, were not seriously hurt.

SAYS WOODWARD WILL BE IN RACE

How Race for Mayor Is Now Shaping Up.

Quillian Has Announced; Pomeroy and English May Soon Announce, and a Friend of Woodward's Says He Will Announce.

"You can put it down for certain that James G. Woodward will run for mayor this year, and he is going to be elected, too."

This statement was made Saturday by a friend of Mr. Woodward, and he added:

"Mr. Woodward has told me he was going to run. He said to me: 'I have had them all guessing, but I will be in the race.'"

It was stated some time ago in The Constitution that Mr. Woodward would probably run, and Mr. Woodward wrote a card in which he said that he had made no such announcement. Mr. Woodward still says that he has not decided what he intends to do.

Campaign Will Soon Begin.

The city campaign will soon open up, as the primary comes off in September. So far, the only openly announced candidate for mayor is Fletcher A. Quillian, ex-alderman, and mayor pro tem, and at present chairman of the bond commision.

Capt. James W. English has stated that he was seriously considering making the race, but so far he has made no announcement.

Col. E. E. Pomeroy, the present mayor pro tem, has stated that he would probably announce in a short time for mayor, but he has not done so up to date. It is believed he will make his announcement in a week or two.

May Be Four in the Race.

So, at this time, it looks like a four-cornered race.

In the meantime candidates for aldermen and councilmen are announcing in the various wards.

Then there are the city hall officials who are to be elected this year. They will have to get into the race, and some of them, it is believed, are going to have opposition.

The city election comes after the state and county elections, and until these two are over with, the city election will be somewhat overshadowed. This is one of the years, as the old saying goes, when the people have to "elect everything, from governor down to dog-catcher."

SPECTACULAR TEST OF AEROPLANE IN WAR

Chas. K. Hamilton to Conduct Extensive Experiments at Chickamauga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 5.—A spectacular test of the utility of the aeroplane in warfare is to be made at the military encampment of United States troops and the national guard of several southern states at Chickamauga Park this summer.

The government has closed a contract with Charles K. Hamilton to conduct the most extensive practical experiments in aerial reconnoissance and bombardment ever attempted. In addition to Hamilton's machine, which is a duplicate of the machine in which Glenn H. Curtiss flew from Albany to New York, there will be present at the maneuvers the Wright biplane, owned by the government, and the dirigible balloon, sold to the war department by Captain Thomas S. Baldwin.

In executing the work laid out for him Hamilton will carry aloft from 200 to 300 pounds of highly explosive nitro-glycerine bombs. Racing at speed varying from 45 to 55 miles an hour, he will release this deadly cargo while at a height of a quarter of a mile above the earth, raining it down upon targets in the 2-mile square area below in seventy-five installments. The targets underneath will consist of dummy fortifications, batteries, arsenals, bridges, trains and troops. In order that danger to life may be minimized to the remotest degree, the troops engaged in the maneuvers will be employed to police the area over which Hamilton will carry on his extraordinary operations.

DAY SAYS AUTO CURSES COUNTRY

Syracuse Chancellor Has Again Broken Out.

Day Declares That Men Are Mortgaging Homes to Get Automobiles and Are Losing Positions Because of Their Infatuation.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 5.—There are so many men couraing about the country in automobiles and their pleasure absorbs such a large share of the productive capital of the country that Chancellor James R. Day, of Syracuse university, believes it is becoming a question if the automobile is not a curse to the country.

The chancellor was speaking to the graduating class of the university today on self-sacrifice and self-denial, and he chose the automobile as a "broad and apparent illustration" of a luxury that too often is not sacrificed.

Mortgaging Homes for Autos.

"Young mechanics and clerks and business men," he said, "who need all of their capital, are mortgaging their homes by the thousands and losing their positions often by their infatuation with this form of pleasure.

"It is said that above five hundred million dollars are invested, in the automobile trade and this enormous capital is non-productive. That is, it adds comparatively nothing to the wealth of the people, but on the contrary absorbs it. It means 90 per cent of wasted money and wasted time. A certain per cent returns in business uses and wholesome rest and recreation.

Day Expects Criticism.

"I know the criticism that will be sure to come because of what will be called an attack on a great industry, but I address myself to the abuse of self-indulgence in a good thing. I emphasie self-denial."

phasize self-denial."

the chancellor believes, for a lower marriage rate. "If you want to know," he said, "why men marry less than of old, perhaps the secret is in the false whim of supporting a wife. He cannot afford to support a wife, the bachelor says. No woman ought to consent to be such a wife. She ought to say: 'I am not seeking or consenting to be supported. There will be two of us. If I cannot earn as much as you, I can save more. We will plan together.'

"The greatest woman is the woman who brings to a man a home. She is greater than the suffragette or the female temperance lecturer."

PRESIDENT RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

Mr. Taft Greatly Pleased With Reception He Received En Route.

Washington, June 5.—President Taft returned to Washington at 8:44 o'clock. He entered a waiting automobile and was driven to the white house and announced that he would see no one in conference. He looked the picture of health.

Senator Burrows and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hilles, who had accompanied Mr. Taft during his western trip, were with him. The party was joined at Baltimore by Charles D. Norton, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury, who will begin his new duties tomorrow as secretary to the president. It was the first time Mr. Norton has been able to confer with Mr. Taft since his appointment.

The president was highly pleased with the enthusiasm shown by the crowds that greeted him at all the railroad stations at which the presidential train stopped today. Although there was a steady downpour of rain, cheering crowds hailed Mr. Taft, who spoke briefly at several points.

BELL PHONE 1708. LADY ATTENDANT.
HOURS, 8 A. M. TO 8 P. M. SUNDAYS 9 TO 2.

A. P. Coles, cashier of the Central Bank and Trust Corporation.

Although the entire business program includes many speeches which will prove of unusual interest to the bankers, it is probable that the speech to be delivered Wednesday morning by L. C. Hayne, president of the National Bank of Augusta and the Planters' Loan and Savings bank, of that city, will prove the feature of the second day's session.

EDWARD B. VREELAND,
Congressman from New York, principal speaker at bankers' convention.

Foreign Bills of Lading.

Mr. Hayne, who was elected by group 2 of the Bankers' Association to represent them at the Atlanta convention, will discuss the present cotton situation from the topic, "Foreign Bills of Lading."

Mr. Hayne's subject is of unusual interest because of the recent failure of two big cotton firms in Alabama and Mississippi, which has brought about a situation that may result in concentrating practically all of the cotton business of the south at the ports, thus seriously affecting the business of the interior points, of which Atlanta is one of the most important.

Mr. Hayne is thoroughly familiar with his subject and his discussion of this serious situation will be one of the most important features of the entire session.

All the arangements for the reception of the visiting bankers have been completed and the headquarters have already been established at the Kimball, with Hansell Hillyer, assistant secretary of the association, in charge.

Vreeland a Speaker.

At the convention, the principal speaker will be Congressman Edward B. Vreeland, of New York, the chairman of the National Monetary Commission, and author of the currency bill.

Representative Vreeland is an authority on financial questions, and the bankers of Georgia will find his address to be one of the most interesting along such lines ever heard in this section.

In this connection it might be stated that his bill provides for emergency currency to be issued during times of panic. Under the provisions of this measure all clearing house associations or groups of banks having a capital of $5,000,000, after having complied with the terms of the bill, in times of panics, may issue emergency currency. This currency is printed by the United States Bureau of Printing, and is in the United States treasury ready for use at any time any financial trouble should occur. Atlanta is the only city in the country to have complied with the terms of the measure.

OLD LADY'S SAGE ADVICE

Knoxville Lady Tells How She Tried Advice of Her Neighbor and Experienced Great Improvement.

Knoxville, Tenn.—"If you had seen me before I began to take Cardui, you would not think I was the same person," writes Mrs. Mamie Towe, of 102 W. Main St., this city.

Six doctors failed to do me good, and my friends thought I would die. I could hardly get out of bed or walk a step.

At last, an old lady advised me to take Cardui, and now I can go most anywhere."

The secret of lasting health is: Regularity.

If a clock does not tick regularly and evenly, it is out of order and soon wears out, or runs down. If all your functions are not regular and natural, you will soon wear out, and get old and run down.

All ailing women need Cardui, as a gentle, refreshing tonic, and beneficial, curative medicine, especially adapted to their peculiar ailments.

It is a reliable, vegetable remedy, for most all womanly ills.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of Cardui during the past 50 years, in the relief and cure of ailments peculiar to women.

It removes the cause, and builds up the strength.

Try Cardui.

HARMON MAKING GREAT GOVERNOR

By John Corrigan.

Columbus, Ohio., June 5.—(Special Correspondence.)—Judson Harmon, of Ohio, the democratic chief executive of a normally republican state, is making one of the best governors Ohio ever had in her history.

In the opinion of his loyal and enthusiastic supporters, he is establishing a record of efficiency and capacity in executive office which will prove him worthy of any office within the gift of the people of the United States.

The Ohio executive went into office by the votes of more than a half million of men. He feels an obligation to them that he is attempting to discharge honestly and fearlessly and with justice to all. He is erecting his political structure on the foundation stone of a square deal.

Two years ago he was chosen to execute the laws of his native state. He won by a majority of 19,000, though the republican nominee for the presidency carried the state by a majority of 70,000, and the whole republican state ticket, with but one other exception, was chosen.

In the eighteen months he has been in office he has made many friends and few enemies. He has pursued grafters ensconced in fat state positions, and has urged reforms where he saw they were needed Reform of the tax laws was specifically and earnestly urged by the governor in his annual message to the legislature.

Factions Are Lining Up.

Though the general assembly has adjourned, there is no dearth of political news. Factions are lining up for the big struggle this fall in which a United States senatorship, the governorship, and the legislature are the prizes. That Governor Harmon will be reelected to succeed himself is firmly believed by his own friends and numbers of outspoken republicans.

The republican leaders are not a bit hopeful over the prospect in the governorship race. They believe their party will have a majority in the legislature and choose a republican successor to Senator Dick, but the possibility of defeating Harmon appears to them as remote.

In their hopelessness, they have one desperate expedient. The progressive wing of the party have a scheme to try and enlist the aid of Theodore Roosevelt in the state campaign as a champion of his old friend and former secretary of the interior, James R. Garfield.

This program presents obstacles that make it appear almost laughable. It would invite the opposition of the friends of the Taft administration in Ohio, for Mr. Garfield has been the open and outspoken critic and enemy of President Taft and the Ballinger administration of the interior department. That the president would lend any aid to Garfield in Ohio is so unreasonable as to be almost out of the question. If he runs, he will run as a progressive, without expecting many favors from the white house.

A few weeks ago Mr. Garfield let it become known that he was a receptive candidate; but he has been handing out explanations and qualifications almost daily since. The county leaders do not want Garfield, because they fear he would not recognize the county organizations in making appointments. The governor of Ohio has quite a nice fat lot of patronage to hand out in the way of railroad commissionerships, superintendent of insurance, state inspector of mines, of oils, state fire marshal and commissioners of fish and game.

Unfriendliness to the Taft administration will also remove Judge Reynolds R. Kinkade, of Toledo, from consideration in the betting on the gubernatorial sweepstakes. President Taft overlooked the judge in making federal judicial appointments, and the judge has not yet gotten over his disappointment.

Taft a Disappointment.

I have been particularly struck with the disaffection toward the president shown by people from all parts of his state. There is an absence of affection and genuine enthusiasm for the genial gentleman in the white house. One member of the state legislature who, for obvious reasons, did not wish to be quoted, said:

"No man ever went into the white house with a kindlier feeling sustaining him. The people of Ohio were prepared to like him without restraint and to give him the full meed of credit for all things accomplished. He had never been tested in executive office, and there was keen interest in the manner in which he would execute the office of president. But the president's course has not heightened the enthusiasm of his fellow citizens of Ohio."

Nowhere does anybody seem to feel any great personal or state pride in Taft's success in winning the highest office in the gift of the people; no pride of possession in the fact that he is a son of Ohio. Everywhere there is dull apathy and blighting indifference. President Taft has been a disappointment to his fellow citizens of Ohio.

Governor Is Widely Popular.

The contrast between the popular view of the president and that of the governor is striking. Those who are for Harmon are enthusiastic in their partisanship. They assert the governor is making good on his program. Even those who differ with him on measures and policies, recognize the forceful character of the man and his skill as a fighter.

The main opponents of the governor are the stalwart organization men who are "out" and want to get "in." They are casting about for issues and seeking to find joints in the governor's armor.

Of course there has been criticism of the legislative program favored by the chief executive. Those measures which have caused the most discussion are the Woods public utilities bill, which failed of passage in the senate after passing the house; the Langdon tax act, which the governor permitted to become a law without his signature; the local option Sunday baseball bill, which he held unconstitutional and vetoed; the Deen bill to amend the Rose local option law, which failed.

Liquor Men Turn on Harmon.

The liquor interests of the state have fallen out with the governor over the fate of the last named bill, which failed by one vote in the senate. Under the Rose county local option law, when a majority vote of the county is against saloons, the county is officially dry. The liquor men wanted the law modified so as to exempt cities in counties from the effect of the action by townships or county districts. The liquor men blamed the governor for not having turned his hand to secure the one vote needed for the bill in the senate.

The Woods public utilities bill was one of the most complex, complicated and voluminous measures introduced in the state legislature in recent years. It contained provisions adopted from Wisconsin, Massachusetts and New York bills to regulate public service corporations, and set down minutely and in detail what these corporations could and could not do. Ohio already has a railroad commission which is authorized to fix freight rates. Passenger rates in the state are fixed by statute. After passing the house, this bill was killed in the senate, every democrat but one voting against it. For his failure to use the power at his hand to drive this measure through, the governor has been criticised. They say it evidenced a disposition on the part of the governor to shield the corporations.

In view of Governor Harmon's connection with railroads—as counsel for several, and as receiver for the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, the Pere Marquette, and the Toledo Terminal railroads, it is strange that his opponents have not made greater efforts to prejudice the people against him on the ground of friendliness for the corporations. That it has not been successfully done is one of the greatest tributes to the governor's personal honesty and political probity.

Was Receiver While Governor.

Even after taking office as governor, the present executive continued as receiver for the C., H. & D. railroad. He was eager to resign, but Judge Lurton, now Justice Lurton, of the supreme court of the United States, who had appointed him receiver in 1904, would not permit it. He retained the place for seven months after entering office as governor.

During his service as receiver, Governor Harmon collected and expended $23,000,000 annually. The three companies were brought through their serious trouble without loss to any of the great number of persons who were interested in their operation.

Though revision of the tax laws of the state, with the view of equalizing taxes and compelling corporations to pay a fair share of state taxes, was one of the reforms most earnestly urged by Governor Harmon, he permitted, as said before, the Langdon tax act to become a law without his signature. This provides for a tax commission of three men, who shall assess, for purposes of local taxation, the value of all public utility corporation property in the state. After fixing the value of such property as a whole, in doing which they may consider the franchise as well as the "junk value," the commission apportions to each county the amount of property subject to local tax in that county.

Some Freak Legislation.

There are humorists in the Ohio legislature, as in Georgia, and freak legislation sometimes gets on the statute books. Such a bill was that introduced by a solon to limit the lunch a saloon could sell. The bill of fare was to be cut down to cheese, crackers and pretzels. Beef steak, and boiled ham, and all the trimmings that formerly went with a glass of beer were to be made illegal. There was so much levity over the bill and its reference to the committee on irrigation and drainage, that its author got decidedly peeved, and then the legislature turned in and passed it just to smooth his ruffled feelings. The governor let it become a law without his signature.

A bill to make Sunday baseball a local option question was passed by the legislature, but the governor vetoed it as unconstitutional. For this he has been warmly criticised by some of the fans and the promoters of baseball. The law against Sunday baseball is ignored in practically every large city in Ohio, except Cleveland, but there local sentiment demands its enforcement. The religious element in the state strongly indorse the governor's stand, but his veto of the bill to permit Sunday baseball when the voters of a city wanted it, was affixed by the governor for purely legal reasons.

The sentiment among the people of Ohio, as reflected at the capitol, is most favorable to the governor. Men who announce themselves republicans, openly admit their admiration for the man in the statehouse. Ohio is normally republican and for a democrat to win, he must secure republican votes, and undoubtedly thousands of republican votes will be cast for Harmon next November, because he has made a good governor.

There is no indication of a trend away from him. In his last campaign he secured 552,569 votes, to 533,197 for Andrew L. Harris, his republican opponent. He ran 50,000 votes ahead of Bryan, who secured 502,721 votes to 572,313 cast for William Howard Taft. This Harmon changed over 88,000 republican votes to the state ticket.

Republicans in the Woods.

So far there is no man who stands head and shoulders above the others for the republican nomination for governor. The present secretary of state, Carmi A. Thompson, is a receptive candidate for the nomination; as are Warren G. Harding and Judge O. B. Brown. Mr. Harding was lieutenant governor for two years and served as secretary of state for four years. Judge Brown was for twelve years on the bench of the court of common pleas of Montgomery county. This position is equivalent to a superior court judgeship in Georgia.

Though the legislature has adjourned, the political pot in Ohio is bubbling furiously. Political conferences between big leaders on both sides are of daily occurrence at the capital. The Neil House in Columbus is the political headquarters of the state's politicians. It is to Columbus what the Kimball House is to Atlanta. This old-fashioned hotel is just across the street from the statehouse, and from the lobby can be seen every man who goes in or out of the governor's office. This is sometimes important.

One of the notable figures in the lobby of the Neil House the past few days has been Wade H. Ellis, the republican state chairman. Mr. Ellis was formerly an assistant attorney general of the United States, but was taken out of the trust-busting department and made the official fat-fryer for Ohio by the president. The manner in which Ellis was put on the state nettled the Ohio leaders and they have not yet gotten over their irritation. The same thing might have been accomplished with less injury to their feelings, but the president acted openly and told them this was the man he wanted for state boss. The leaders accepted the president's man, it is true, but with very bad grace.

If Harmon is elected next November, his closest friends here believe he will be the logical man for the democratic nomination for president. But the rank and file of the people who are singing the praises of Harmon, want him, because he has made a good governor.

ATLANTA MAY YET GET POSTOFFICE

Members of Committee Still Very Hopeful.

They Say That Point of Order Made in House of Representatives Was Not Unexpected. Chief Hope All Along Lay in the Senate.

The committee that went to Washington about the old postoffice has not at all lost hope because of the action of the house of representatives. They say that what happened in the house was not unexpected, and all along it was known that a point of order might be raised. However, they believe the matter will be passed upon favorably by the senate, that when a vote is afterwards taken in the house there will be a good majority for the old postoffice to be turned over to Atlanta for a city hall.

The committee was as follows: Mayor Robert F. Maddox, Alderman John W. Grant, Alderman William A. Hancock, Councilman Samuel N. Evins, of the general council, and Fred J. Paxon, of the chamber of commerce.

Still Very Hopeful.

Mayor Maddox says that he is still very hopeful.

"When we were in Washington," says the mayor, "we were informed that such a point of order as was made in the house was probable. So, what has happened was not entirely unexpected. I think Senators Clay and Bacon will take hold of the matter in the senate, and that they will have the donation of the old postoffice to Atlanta safely passed in the sundry civil bill. Then when the matter goes back to the house the amendment will be adopted. I have not yet lost hope."

Alderman Grant said:

"I believe that Atlanta will yet get the old postoffice. The setback in the house was something of a jolt, but it was not unexpected. The matter will, I think, be set right in the senate."

Were Looking for It.

Alderman Hancock said:

"We were looking for a point of order to be raised, but were hopeful that it might not be. We will now have to look to the senate, and I feel confident that we will get the postoffice in the end."

Councilman Evins said:

"That point of order made in the house was something we were afraid of all along. We were told it might be made, and that our chief hope lay with the senate. Senators Clay and Bacon will take the matter up and safely steer it through the senate. The house will act later, and I feel sure that our representatives will get a majority there. The matter does not look at all hopeless to me yet."

Mr. Paxon said:

"It isn't time to give up hope just because of one little wrong turn. Such matters can't be worked out in a day. We still stand a good show to get the old postoffice, for the senate, I think, will act favorably, and then the house will follow suit. What occurred was expected. I am still hopeful."

DEBUT ON THE CONCERT STAGE FOR BEAUTIFUL ATLANTA GIRL

Miss Atlanta Mae Brannan, whose remarkable voice has attracted much attention in musical circles in the north, and who is a native of Atlanta, being named for this city, passed through the city Friday en route to her present home in Washington City, after the completion of a lyceum trip in Florida.

Miss Brannan, who is the daughter of M. M. Brannan, formerly well known in Atlanta journalism, but now on the lyceum stage as a popular humorist, is still a young woman, and has yet to make her formal debut as a concert singer. Her trip during the past season was more in the nature of a preliminary than a regular tour, and it is announced that she will probably make her first formal appearance in Atlanta before the people of her native city, some time during the approaching season. She has already closed contracts for concerts in cities throughout the north and east.

Prominent music critics have accredited Miss Brannan with a rarely sweet voice, showing thorough cultivation, which, combined with her unusual type of beauty, serve to make her one of the most promising of the younger singers now on the American concert stage.

Mr. Brannan accompanied his daughter to Atlanta, and remained in the city for several days, arranging for an engagement for her here early in the fall. In talking of his daughter, Mr. Brannan said:

"The discovery of my daughter's voice would make an interesting story, but I haven't time to relate it now. Since she has consented to sing in public at all, so timid was she of her voice that I tried for three years to induce her to let me hear it. It is her desire, as it is mine, to make her formal professional debut in Atlanta, where she was born. I am arranging for her appearance in New York, but I want Atlanta to hear her first.

"One encore is a high tribute, two is a eulogy, three a panegyric. She has received three encores for a single song, with requests for other songs after her evening program had been completed, such the desire to hear her voice. I have had her on trial, so to say, and the result is that I would without hesitancy take her anywhere, London, Paris—anywhere, but Atlanta first. Along with her voice she has the rare merit of perfect enunciation."

BISHOP CANDLER PREACHES SERMON

Young J. Allen Memorial Church Dedicated.

Marks Epoch in Emory's History—Following Sermon, the Church Formally Presented by President Asa G. Candler.

By Linton K. Starr.

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—Following a powerful sermon by Bishop Warren A. Candler, the Young J. Allen Memorial church was dedicated this morning in the presence of one of the largest assemblages ever gathered here. The board of trustees occupied seats immediately in front of the rostrum, and just behind these were the members of the graduating class, in academic costume. In the congregation were not only many of the most prominent Methodists of Georgia and a number of foreign missionaries, but numbers of members of other denominations.

After appropriate music by local talent the services were opened with a fervent prayer by Rev. J. O. A. Cook, after which lessons were read by Dr. Charles E. Dowman, ex-president of the college and now presiding elder of the Oxford district; also by Rev W. H. LaPrade, Jr., pastor in charge here. Bishop Candler read a lesson from Acts xvii, 15-31, after which he delivered a characteristic stirring sermon, which forcibly impressed and appealed to the congregation through its intense earnestness and soundness of argument.

Thirst for Spiritual Life.

The dominating thought of the sermon was on the universal hungering for God as revealed only through the Arisen Christ and the regenerative powers of the Gospel. He said that the most desperate need of men is the knowledge of God, and that the most pathetic fact in the universe is the human being which fails to find God. He said that persons needed most the Supreme Person, and that adoration is man's highest power.

"Hence," he said, "the purpose of God in creation and history is that men may seek Him and find Him," and said that the modern notion of having found God and of Christianity consisting in merely feeding and clothing the poor and charitable works, does not satisfy; that we want to know our Father and touch our brother. He said that the dominant movements of history were spiritual movements, and cited instances; that science and political and commercial movements are not the mighty movements, but that spiritual movements dominate this and all ages.

He asked the question, "How are you to find God?" and quoted, "O that I knew where I might find Him that I might come even to His seat! Behold I go forward, but He is not there; and backward, but I cannot perceive Him. On the left hand when He doth work, but I cannot behold Him; He hideth Himself on the right hand, that I cannot see Him. But He knoweth the way I take." The bishop said that the answer of God to the question is not in a system of theology; that God cannot be found outside of a person and that person Jesus Christ. He said "Men can find God only in Christ and in the Risen Christ." That the Son of God is a Risen Personality, hungering for souls, and that God can regenerate men.

Christianity Reigns Supreme.

Bishop Candler's closing thought was that all history, therefore, is in cooperation with the Christian movement and culminates in the world's finding God, which heals its sorrows, corrects its disorders, and crowns it with festal joys eternal, all things being made new.

Bishop Candler followed his sermon with appropriate remarks on the new church, the old building, which has been used as a church for the past seventy years, and the missionary in whose memory the new building has been erected. He spoke of the great self-sacrifice of Dr. Young J. Allen in going to China "to carry the Gospel of Christ to a nation that had every kind of knowledge except the knowledge of God." He spoke of how fitting it is that a monument to Dr. Allen should be erected in this place, and earnestly expressed his hope and belief that the power of God should be manifested in the new building, exclaiming, "May this place be a Bethel where many will find God." He said that, although the place of worship has been moved from an old to a new church, "May there be no change in the religious characteristics of this institution."

Church Formally Presented by Board.

When Bishop Candler had closed, President Asa G. Candler, of the board of trustees, made a formal presentation of the church in behalf of the board, after which the impressive ceremonies of dedicating the building took place.

The dedication of the Young J. Allen Memorial church marks an epoch in the history of Emory college, since for many years those most intimately associated with the college have longingly looked forward to the time when a more fitting place of worship than the little wooden building which has served here so long should be erected. The movement to erect a memorial church in honor of Dr. Allen, one of Emory's distinguished sons, was first suggested by the late Hon. I. E. Shumate, of Dalton. The resolution to do so was adopted by the trustees in June, 1907, and placed in the hands of the president, Dr. James E. Dickey. To Dr. Dickey should go the credit of erecting the handsome building which was dedicated today.

Tonight, as a part of the commencement program, Rev. J. B. Johnstone, of the South Georgia conference, preached to a congregation which was of good proportions, despite extremely inclement weather.

Tomorrow morning commencement exercises will be continued with the junior orations at 10 o'clock. In the afternoon the champion debate between representatives of the Few and Phi Gamma Literary Societies will be held, after which the president will deliver the various medals and announce awards. Tomorrow night no college exercises will be held, in view of the college men's receptions. Each of the seven fraternities will hold a reception, as will also the non-fraternity men.

JOURNAL-HERALD TOUR WILL BEGIN

Over 70 Cars Leave Atlanta This Morning.

The First Entrant Will Be Away From the City at 8 O'Clock --- First Stop of the Tour Will Be Made in Commerce, Ga.

On the first lap of the long journey from Whitehall to Broadway over 70 cars, entrants in the Atlanta Journal-New York Herald tour, will leave the city this morning.

The cars have been ordered to assemble at 7:45 o'clock, each car having been given a special parking location in the center of the city, in order to prevent any confusion in the start.

At 8 o'clock the start will be made, the Reo flying scout car being given the signal by Starter Schwalbach to begin the trip to New York.

Tour Will Begin.

Fifteen minutes later the Columbia pacemaker will leave, and after fifteen minutes' interval car No. 1, the Packard of Beaumont Davison, will be leaving a streak of dust behind.

From that time on cars will depart in what will seem almost endless number at intervals of one minute each.

The program for the departure of the tour is fixed. Its route will be from the starting point at the corner of The Journal building at Alabama and Broad streets, down the short block on Alabama to turn left over Whitehall street viaduct and enter Peachtree at Five Points, the heart of Atlanta, at the other end of the viaduct. Thence out Peachtree, with the road cleared ahead of them by the automobile of Chief Cummings, of the Atlanta fire department, carrying Chief Cummings and Police Chief Jennings.

Sixty-Nine Entrants.

The entry list shows a total of eight official, or non-contesting, cars, and sixty-nine entrants. Of this number sixty-five will start, according to the latest information. Of these cars the technical committee has already completed its work with fifty-eight, and it is believed the others will report this morning to the committee at 129 Auburn avenue.

In these sixty-five contestants and eight official cars forty-two makes of automobiles are represented. The value of the contesting cars reaches the handsome total of $142,770. The cars come from twenty-seven towns and cities in eleven states.

The first day's run will be from Atlanta to Anderson, S. C., a distance of 139 miles. This trip will be made via Brookwood, Buckhead, Cross Keys, Humphries Park, Chamblee, Buchanan, Mechanicsville, Norcross, Pittman, Carolina, Duluth, Ashburn, Winder, Jefferson, Commerce, Carnesville, Lavonia, and then into South Carolina via Fair Play to Anderson.

The first stop of the tour will be made in Commerce, where the tourists will stop for a picnic dinner on the lawn of Dr. L. G. Hardman's residence, where the ladies of Commerce will be in command.

Thence, after a stop of an hour or so the run will continue on into South Carolina, Anderson being the first night's stop.

Almost three hundred people will take part in the tour and it will test the accommodations of the most of the cities through which the trip is made.

DR. JOHN D. HAMMOND.

Christian Advocate on His Retirement as Secretary.

The current issue of The Christian Advocate has the following editorial in reference to the retirement of Dr. John D. Hammond:

Dr. John D. Hammond retires from the office of secretary of education after twelve years of exceptionally sane and wise administration. A headlong or crochetty man in that position during these formative years might easily have been a calamity to the church. Dr. Hammond, while confining his endeavors strictly within the limits set and giving his whole strength to promoting education in the church and by the church, has had a spirit so genial and a mind so open in his contact with those friends and promoters of education whose line of interests and activities is not strictly ecclesiastical, that he has won the confidence and good will of educators everywhere, within the church and without as well.

Perhap his chief characteristic as an administrator has been his breadth of interest. He has associated with himself the real leaders of education in the church, and has willingly received from them large contributions of advice and suggestion and cooperation. They have aided him in standardizing courses of study, nursing weak enterprises, outlining educational policies, and supplying in general a substantial and intelligible basis for the educational work of the denomination, so long desultory and unorganized.

It was not fair to him that he should have been interrupted in the midst of an administration so marked by conservatism as well as progress, by breadth as well as definiteness, so free from cant and sensationalism, whether religious or pedagogical. We doubt if there is another man in the whole south so widely and accurately informed as to educational conditions, especially as related to the churches. Dr. Hammond has not yet announced his plans for the future, but we shall consider it a distinct misfortune if his knowledge and experience in educational matters are not employed in some sphere where they can have adequate scope. His sympathetic and intelligent study of the problems of negro education makes him an expert also in that difficult field. Into whatever sphere of endeavor his feet may turn, he will be followed by the affection and the undiminished confidence of a host of friends. His unaffected piety, his unstudied manliness, his fair-mindedness, sanity and culture are to all who know him an open book which he who runs may read.

ATLANTA, GA., June 6, 1910.

A census that gives entire satisfaction is not of this earth.

Anyway, President Taft has a private secretary who is "a hustler."

Mr. Taft's famous "double" is not in position to bear half the burden.

Considering the criticisims, it's a wonder June doesn't blaze with wrath.

England can't understand how a "private citizen" can be a public dictator.

Of course, some bachelor-graduate will call the June weddings "trouble commencements."

We believe that congress is sincere in its desire to adjourn and give the people a holiday.

The astronomers had to discover a new star to make up for the miss in their comet calculations.

What are you kicking about? You don't have to pay the lime-lit Lorimer's clipping bureau bill.

In chill Spring weather, give us a ton of coal in preference to a June poet with "burning thoughts."

We have good pictures of the comet, and Mr. Halley's autograph is in an excellent state of preservation.

As long as the new times honor the old money we shall not express a ton of ours to the government laundry.

Wonderful is the big stick that wasn't splintered when the loaded end landed on the head of the British lion.

Think of the work Roosevelt will have before him when he opens up with "Exhibit A" of his party's troubles.

The Jeffries-Johnson bout will be strenuous; but just wait till Rudyard Kipling lands in the ring with a Roosevelt-poem!

The statement that the average salary of the American pastor is only $630 a year should make the home-heathen dig deep.

With the Illinois boodlers on the mourner's bench, it will be wise for the brethren to keep a sharp eye on the collection basket.

The Florida Times-Union says Jacksonville is "the June rose of the South." Thought it was the juicy mint-bed of the East?

The weather has given the Spring novels a fine Fall flavor, but the Autumn authors will pass their plates for porridge, just the same.

"Where will Mr. Roosevelt land?" The Baltimore Sun asks. Well, if his aim is as good as ever, as he swings his favorite weapon, he'll "land" on top.

Too early for the Britishers to criticise the Colonel's utterances, for since they consider his speech a huge joke, it will take them 30 days to see the point.

The daddy of the family may ride in an ox cart to the college commencement, but that rude conveyance is ample to accommodate the cash for the graduation exercises.

THE LOOMING HARMON.

In the steady march of political readjustment which points the declesion from power of the republican party and the ascension of the democrats, circumstances have thrust forward Judson Harmon, of Ohio, as among those personalities with whom the history of the next two or three years may be called upon to reckon.

Democratic control of the house of representatives next winter is now virtually a foregone conclusion. In the event it is materialized without qualification, and wisdom rather than folly rules the democratic program, the shadow of a democratic administration in 1912 will encroach upon American history.

Democrats of foresight are not unmindful of the obligations of the situation. Even now they are discussing the available or logical individuals to which the party, in this day of opportunity, must look for leadership—perhaps for presidential standard-bearers.

Judson Harmon, democratic governor of republican Ohio, has by his aggressive and balanced personality and his attractive record, won a place in the ranks of those distinguished democrats around whom democratic speculation is now most critically playing. Should he be reelected governor of Ohio this fall the democracy and the country will take it as evidence and an omen which will strengthen his position in the coterie of democratic eligibles.

With these facts in mind, The Constitution is presenting a series of letters making an analytical study of Governor Harmon by its Washington correspondent, gained through study of his record and a remarkable interview with the governor. This article, published elsewhere, throws illuminating sidelights upon an unusual personality. It reveals, from every essential angle, the viewpoints and the individuality of a distinguished democrat whose name may not be ignored when the party comes to deal with a crisis now fast crystallizing.

WHEN EUROPE LEVIES TRIBUTE.

A correspondent of The Philadelphia Press, commenting upon the advent of the annual summer rush to the old world, estimates that at least $3,500,000 is being spent for first cabin steamship accommodations. This does not, of course, include second or third cabin reservations, or the cheaper modes employed by Americans with sufficient desire to see Europe to patronize the cruder styles in travel.

The sums here set down and intimated are merely the beginning of the yearly tribute America pays to Europe.

All of these first-cabin passengers are people of means, many of them of large wealth. They will pour an aggregate of scores of millions into the pockets of every country in the old world.

The American traveling tourists, even those keeping an eagle eye on every penny, cannot escape without a goodly contribution to the bank accounts of the foreign railways, hotels, bazars and the innumerable devices wherewith the shrewd European flattens the pocket-book of the globe-girdling American.

Nor does this take into account the regular year-round travel—whether expressed in the American of independent fortune to whom a trans-Atlantic trip is about as epochal as a journey to Macon, or the international business man whose itineraries mean the annual transplanting in the aggregate of almost incredible sums from this country to the old-world nations.

Year by year the exports of gold from these shores to Europe mount higher and higher, broken only by the infrequent intermissions of panic or depression years. These prodigious sums by which we burn incense to pleasure and business are held in check only by the returning streams of European gold, sent here to pay for the cotton, wheat, steel and manufactured products the old countries purchase in America.

No sensible man would, if he could, put a check to the increasing tendency of Americans of every station to invade the nations across the ocean. Travel is one of the most effective auxiliary educators, and in this role it is accentuated when the destination happens to be one of historic interest. And a nation only travels the seas on a large and ascending scale when it is prosperous.

But—why not see America first? There are spectacles in this country that both rank with and outclass the show-places of the old world. They are infinitely more accessible and the sums spent in reaching them are kept in this country, not sent abroad to run up the balance on the wrong side of the international ledger.

ROOSEVELT AS HEAD OF FARM COMMISSION.

The suggestion of President Barrett, of the Farmers' Union, that Theodore Roosevelt head the shortly-to-be-revived commission on country life is an apt one, and should appeal to the farmers as well as the nation-at-large.

Of all the callings suggested for the most distinguished American in private life, it is doubtful if any take right-of-way in sheer constructiveness over that here put forward.

The ultimate aim of the commission on country life, created, by the way, in the closing months of the Roosevelt administration, is to revivify rural and agricultural conditions from top to bottom in America.

Considering that agriculture is the basis of national prosperity and that problems rising out of it are now the most serious facing the United States, it would be difficult to imagine a service more patriotic than that comprised in directing a crusade designed to this end.

While we question if Mr. Roosevelt would find it expedient to take the active chairmanship of such a movement, he would unquestionably ally himself with it in an advisory capacity.

Making allowance even for that qualification, he could be of inestimable service to his country by giving impetus to a campaign founded upon the mitigation of problems now causing national misgiving.

A HALL COUNTY HEN.

Hens are indigenous to Georgia.

The assertion may appear rather flat, abrupt and susceptible to indictment as a platitude.

But we use it, as conveying a lesson in view of the spectacular achievement of a Hall county hen—and they do say that Hall county hens, to borrow slang, develop lots of "class."

Whatever "class" is, this one possessed it in superabundance.

So feverishly energetic was she to add to the census of eggs—commend us to her patriotism—that she concealed herself under the wagon-seat of her owner, rode the six miles with him to Gainesville, and when the wagon stopped in front of the postoffice, sailed off cackling with a husky egg behind as earnest of her convictions.

There are thousands of aspiring, able-bodied hens in Georgia just as anxious to add to the collective wealth and to take a "crack" at the cost of living.

We believe, also, that there are many more thousand hens that could be brought to Georgia, duly naturalized, and persuaded to view a paramount issue in the same light.

All either need is—encouragement.

Why not raise less cotton and—more hens?

Is cotton a maker of dividends?

So are hens!

The hen has cotton beat a mile, if you treat her properly.

Will a hen help lift the mortgage?

Ask several thousand poultry-dealers and raisers in the middle west, and in the once-sterile stretches of New England.

Let us have more of this hale and indefatigable brand of Hall county hens.

They underwrite prosperity!

Southern Press on That Pee-Wee Performance.

(From The Augusta Chronicle.)

In trying to excuse themselves for their pee-wee performance in the house of congress on Thursday last, by saying they were "defending the south," those "little democrats" who thus made themselves ridiculous before the country, must, also, find that they have run counter to the best southern sentiment in this matter; and that, instead of being able to have themselves regarded as real defenders of the south, the opinion is well-nigh unanimous that their performance was entirely gratuitous, uncalled for, picayunish and absurd in the extreme.

For instance, so staunch a southern newspaper as The Houston (Texas) Post characterizes the part played by these heroic "defenders of the south" as "picayunish snarling," and says it was nothing more nor less than "peanut politics." It feels sure that "the people of the south" are more than willing that the president's traveling expenses should be paid in full and the appropriation for this purpose be made "immediately available."

What ought The Post not have said had it been reminded of the fact that one of the very congressmen who was most strenuous in his "objection" to the payment of the president's traveling expenses in full, voted to increase his own salary just 50 per cent—from $5,000 to $7,500 a year.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, another high-toned southern paper, makes the rather timely point that it "shows about as much ill taste to brag about our hospitality as to bray about being clean or honest." It declares, further, that "the south does not grudge one cent spent on this trip."

The Wilmington (N. C.) Star—still another good southern newspaper—thinks the entire performance was one that should have been "pulled off up a back alley." It regards the whole thing as a "disgraceful row," and clearly indicates that it is tired of seeing men in congress who are "too ready to shoot off their mouths." The Star, too, sees in the performance of these "little democrats" merely another "lurid display of peanut politics."

The Greenville (S. C.) News calls it "gribbling," and thinks congress was made "ridiculous" by it.

The Washington (D. C.) Herald, which is as good a southern paper as if it were published on this side of the imaginary line, thinks the opposition to the retroactive feature of the expense appropriation was "childish and unworthy of the minority."

In the face of such ringing expressions from leading southern newspapers and such representative southern men, how pitiful seems the effort of these "little democrats" and their organs to try to make it appear—now that they see the hole in which they placed themselves—that their "picayunish snarling" and "peanut" political tactics should be accepted by southern people as a brave, patriotic "defense of the south." What effrontery!

Prattville Shows Up.

Montgomery, Ala., June 5.—(Special.) Prattville was some pumpkin at the state university this year, so far as athletics go. Emmett Wilkinson, son of Chief Clerk Wilkinson, of the department of agriculture of the state, was manager of the track team, and a member of the football aggregation. Merrill Pratt, also of the Autauga capital, was captain of the baseball team, and one of its pitchers. Owen Gresham, a third from the town where they make gins, is captain of the football team, and the best pitcher on the baseball squad.

New Insurance Company.

Montgomery, Ala., June 5.—(Special.) The Atlas Insurance Company, capital $100,000, has been incorporated in Montgomery. Dr. A. H. Montgomery being president and medical director. Simon Gassenheimer is vice president, Ray Jones secretary and A. J. Jones treasurer. The directors are W. C. Oates, B. P. Crum, J. E. Hickey, A. J. Jones, L. B. Whitfield, Jaques Loeb, A. H. Montgomery, James Toole, R. J. Chambers, H. F. Vandiver, S. Gassenheimer and W. B. Jones, of Montgomery; W. L. Casey, Ozark; C. M. Covington, Pensacola, and J. G. Pace, Milton, Fla. John A. Copeland, of Rome, Ga., is the actuary.

As to "Investigation."

(From The Valdosta Times.)

There is one loyal spirit, though, who always comes across. He can be depended upon, in season and out of season. It does not matter what the provocation is, nor what the issue, he is usually "Johnny on the spot." Henry Grady used to call him "whoo-pee." Some others call him "whopper." He calls himself Hooper. It is Mr. Alexander, of DeKalb.

Mr. Alexander has followed the howlers into the ranks of the Italian Mafia in their brutal assaults upon Governor Brown for sending the militia over to a Georgia coal mine and putting a check upon a lot of Italian anarchists who were threatening to kill the owners of the mine and to destroy property. Mr. Whopper bobs up with his echo and wants the governor's act "investigated." Whopper is great on investigations. He only sidesteps when he is under the probe. He had a fine opportunity to investigate at the last meeting of the legislature, but we do not remember that he took advantage of it.

There was a member of the legislature who was drawing his per diem from the state for services as the representative of one of the counties. He happened to be a lawyer, but nobody ever regarded him as much in that line. He was appointed an hour or two before the former governor retired from office to represent the state of Georgia in the collection of some railroad taxes before the high courts in Washington. He was to be paid $250 on the spot for his services, and that much more before he went to Washington to push the case. It happens, too, that Georgia has an attorney general whose business it is to push such cases. The attorney general had this case in hand and was pushing it. He did not need the assistance of the "helper." But the "helper" needed the employment—he wanted the fee. Though a member of the legislature, he accepted the employment from a governor who retired from office an hour or two later.

The governor had a right to employ him. He had a legal right to accept the employment, even though it was made to pay a political debt. There were people at the time who criticised the appointment and who were rather severe in criticising the lawyer-representative for accepting it. There were some folks who wanted it "investigated," but we do not remember that Whopper was one of them. He was willing enough to try and pick a flaw in the prompt action of Governor Brown in putting down a horde of Italian anarchists, but he did not kick when $500 of the state's money was handed out to himself to "help" Attorney General Hart do some work for which he was getting extra pay, because it was out of the state. The reformers of the Alexander type are usually after the "other fellow." They want the other fellow's premises kept clean, while theirs may grow up with weeds and briars.

Testing for Teachers.

Montgomery, Ala., June 5.—(Special.) All the papers of the April examination for teachers will have been looked over and the result announced by the middle of this month. Secretary Willingham, of the state board of examiners, with a large force of helpers, is pushing every nerve to get the work done. It is one of the hardest jobs in the state to fix up these papers, and after each examination there is always a siege of hot and serious service.

Columbus Schools to Close.

Columbus, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—The closing exercises of the Columbus public schools will be held next Thursday evening at Springer Opera house. A dozen or so high school graduates will receive diplomas and an interesting program has been arranged for the occasion.

Close Successful Term.

Columbus, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—The Columbus Seminary for Young Ladies has just closed a successful year with highly interesting public exercises. Diplomas were delivered to a number of graduates, and the occasion was marked by a program of music and addresses. Judge A. W. Cozart and Hon. L. H. Chappell both made excellent addresses, and the Rev. S. Alston Wragg also participated in the program.

"FIGHT FOR STOP-OVERS HAS REALLY JUST BEGUN"

--J. F. McGahee

"I hardly believed they would have the nerve," said T. F. McGahee, wholesale cigar man, yesterday in speaking about the railroads' refusal of Atlanta's request for stop-overs. "Still, too, their continued delaying of a definite answer looked suspicious. Still, I believed that they were only looking well before they leaped.

"However, if I know anything about Atlanta, her citizenry, and her boasted 'Atlanta Spirit,' the fight isn't over—not by a most perceptible margin. In fact, as I see it, it has really just begun. This that has gone before has been only a sort of skirmish, and as every soldier knows, few big fights ever occurred when there was not more or less skirmishing before the real battle was on in earnest.

"There has been a lot said about stop-overs in the past two or three months, but nothing has been done, save to kindly and politely ask the roads to give us something that we have a right to demand. That we have gotten only our trouble for our pains is not only as plain as the bump on a log, but is not a matter of surprise to many.

"The roads know, as does anyone in touch with the situation, that Atlanta can force them into giving stop-overs, and that without any great loss of time. The Southern, it is said, is the 'biggest nigger in the woodpile,' and it always pays to handle the big fellows first. This does away with having to handle the small fry at all nine times out of ten. This being the case, the Southern has laid itself liable to attack by the entire Atlanta public.

"Whether Atlanta gets stop-overs or not depends entirely upon whether or not she is willing to go after them without mincing matters. This I look to see her do. If I am right, the roads will have cause to regret their recent and apparently unjustified actions."

LETTER OF SAM M. INMAN INDORSED BY SCHLESINGER

"I wish to indorse the excellent letter of Mr. S. M. Inman and the most timely editorial in this morning's Constitution," said Harry Schlesinger, prominent manufacturer, yesterday.

"I can assure the West Side Club of the approval of the entire city in backing up this delayed and long needed improvement, if from none other than a selfish point of view, for it will be to the general good of the whole city.

"Judging from the editorial, The Constitution is heartily in favor of this valuable suggestion of Mr. Inman's, as you at all times support the upbuilding of Atlanta, Georgia and the entire south.

"Mr. Inman has so well covered the ground, and your comments are so full and to the point, that it would indeed be a great benefit to have you repeat them both—for then no one could gainsay the necessity for immediate action.

"How well the city will benefit by the improvement in the way of increased taxation, and of new factories springing up all along the line; as it seems the logical point for factories and homeseekers as to comfort and conveniences and altitude. There the working class would not be barred by prohibitive rents and prices of homes.

"When said additions are made it will indeed be ideal for homes, on account of its close proximity to business and industrial centers.

"As it now stands, it is impassable and isolated, for only with great difficulty can hundreds of homes be reached by even grocery and coal wagons.

"Let us have action, and have it quick, for it is needed sorely."

NEGRO CHURCH ASKS AID IN ENLARGING ITS PLANT

In a communication sent to The Constitution relative to the recent editorial, "A Sermon to the Church," E. H. Oliver, pastor of Warren Chapel A. M. E. church, calls attention to the work his church is doing and asks the aid of white friends to raise $1,000 to complete a fund of $2,500 for the purpose of enlarging the church plant. The home mission board of the church has promised $500, the members of the church will raise $1,000 more, leaving $1,000 to be raised by outsiders.

The communication follows:

"Editor Constitution: I have read with a great deal of interest your editorial, 'A Sermon to the Church.'

"This editorial says that you understand the condition in this, our beloved, southland. The negro who thinks will never forget the stand you have taken in this matter affecting his deepest life. I wish the white people of the south, who know our needs better than the white man north, east or west, would see this one fact—that if half of the money spent in guard-protection was used in the moral and religious uplift of the negro that we would have a much happier land.

"With such men as you, Mr. Editor, to call this country to duty on this serious situation the morning rays of a better day will soon dawn.

"For nearly four years I have been at work in the midst of 5,000 of my people; many of them have never had any religious instruction. Many of those who have had this instruction have received it at the hands of persons very poorly prepared for the duty.

"If the intelligent negro, helped by the best white people, does not reach this mass of ignorant and superstitious people it may be that they, in their ignorance and vice, will reach forth their hands and pull down the pillars of our boasted civilization. Our great trouble—I mean the negro—is our moral and religious ignorance. The negro is not able to redeem himself. He must have the help of the white man.

"We have not simply preached in our little church at the corner of Humphrey and Chapel streets, but we have organized three Sunday schools in the slum districts of this city. All the instruction many a boy and girl have had in this section has come through these missions. These missions are located as follows: 366 Chapel street, one on Kennesaw alley and the other corner of Chestnut and Parson streets. Everything that is done in the way of teachers and money to carry on this work has been done by negroes, and poor negroes at that. I have wondered why no white man has ever seen what I am trying to do and come around and, at least, say a kind word.

"This little church of mine is also struggling to keep a home for three or four antebellum members who are too old to care for themselves. The doing of this work for the needy has caused a rush of this class of people to our little church, so that we are crowded out—have not room to accommodate the throngs of children and old folks who come to hear of Jesus and thus be blessed.

"Our souls long to get the boys and girls from the streets and give them useful instruction—not simply Bible truth, but instruction in a useful occupation, such as cooking, sewing, carpentry, etc., but we have not the room.

"We are planning an effort for $2,500 to enlarge our church plant. Our home mission board has granted us a donation of $500 on condition that we raise $2,000. My church can raise $1,000 of this amount. The other $1,000 must be raised from the outside.

"Have we not friends enough to this class of work among the white people of Atlanta to give us this amount?

"Dr. James W. Lee, pastor of Park Street M. E. church, south; Dr. John E. White, Second Baptist, and Dr. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, know of my work and heartily indorse the same.

"E. H. OLIVER,
"Pastor Warren Chapel M. E. Church."

SOUTHERN FRUIT GROWERS TO EXHIBIT AT CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, June 5.—(Special.)—Fruit growers of the south are preparing to enter into active competition with the horticulturists of the north in the matter of displaying their products at the Ohio Valley exposition, to be held in Cincinnati from August 29 to September 24. During the past few years the growing of fruits that were considered largely a northern product has been taken up in the south, so that this section now is in a position to get into active competition with its rivals north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers for business along these lines. Particularly in the matter of growing apples is the south forging rapidly to the fore, the quantity and quality of this fruit produced in the south showing a decided increase yearly. It is expected that southern fruit growers will have large exhibits of apples at the exposition in connection with the general display of southern products, for which a separate building will be provided. In referring to the rapid increase of shipments of apples from the south to northern points during the past few years, a well-known railroad man recently related a story of being approached by a business man from a certain section of the south with a request for a rate on a large shipment of apples to New York. No such shipment having been made before from this section, the railroad man was curious to know how the apple industry has grown so suddenly. "Well, responded the man who was looking for the rate, "the government has closed all the stills in our section, an we're obliged to send our apples to market now."

TO CALIFORNIA IN AUTO ATLANTANS WILL RIDE

Off for California in an auto, three well-known Atlantans will start this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The young men who will make this long trip in a car are:

Laurance E. Grant, R. A. Thompson and Dan McDougal. They have made all the necessary preparations and will begin the long ride with hopes of a most pleasant time.

They will head westward for Arizona and then go to Los Angeles, where they will spend the summer.

Laurance Grant has been in the city several weeks visiting his relatives and remained over so as to be present at the unveiling of the memorial to Colonel L. P. Grant, who was his grandfather.

"We have a good car," stated Mr. Grant yesterday, "and it will be well stocked with provender and cigars. We are not going to try to make any record-breaking trip as to time, but will take it slowly where the roads are bad and spurt when the roads are good. We don't know exactly how long we will be on the trip, but it will be something like three weeks, perhaps, as we will have to stop at night in some town to sleep. As for eating, we can do that as we ride along. Our trip will be one of the longest rides ever taken in an auto. We selected this method of travel in order to get a lot of fresh air and see the country as we go along."

Mrs. C. T. Lawson, Cordele.

Perry, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—Mrs. Claudia T. Lawson, who died this morning at 2 o'clock in Cordele, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Claudia Pate, was buried here Saturday evening at 5 o'clock in Evergreen cemetery. She is survived by one son, Mr. Hugh Lawson, of Perry, and two daughters, Mrs. Claudia Pate, of Cordele, and Mrs. Mattie Cheeves, of Montezuma; one brother and five sisters. She had been in feeble health for several years. She was a consistent member of the Baptist church, a daughter of the late Rev. B. F. Tharpe, of this place, and one who was loved and admired by all who knew her.

MR. CLARK TRANSFERRED.

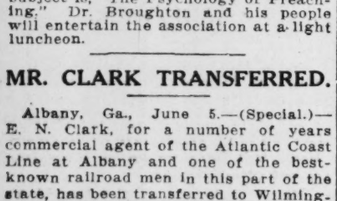

Albany, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—E. N. Clark, for a number of years commercial agent of the Atlantic Coast Line at Albany and one of the best-known railroad men in this part of the state, has been transferred to Wilmington, N. C., as agricultural and industrial agent for Virginia, North and South Carolina. His successor here has not yet been made.

It is stated that Mr. Clark is one of two men in responsible positions now with the Coast Line who were with the old Plant System, which the Coast Line absorbed a number of years ago. He has been with the system since 1879. He takes up his new duties on the 15th instant, and the fact that he is to leave Albany occasions deep regret. He has served on the city council here, and held other positions of public trust.

Crops in Bulloch Poor.

Statesboro, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—The farmers of this county seem to be having a strenuous time of it this season, and as a result grave fears are entertained about the cotton and corn crops. It is said that the cotton stands are the poorest seen in this county in many years and at that the crop is late, owing to the farmers having to replant their crop of cotton, some having to replant the second time. Some of the best farmers state that if rains edos not fall in the near future the corn crop in this county will be materially damaged. In some fields it is said the corn is now drying up for want of moisture.

COUNCIL TO HOLD A LIVELY SESSION

Charter Amendment for the Election of City Officials Will Be Discussed.

The general council will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and there seems to be some prospect of a row over the proposed charter amendment which calls for the election by the people of several officials who are now chosen by council or by some of the boards.

Last year the council adopted a resolution asking for the charter amendment. It names the following officials to be elected by the people: Recorder, city clerk, marshal, building inspector, warden, comptroller, electrician and general manager of the waterworks.

Lately there has been some talk about rescinding the action of last year's council, and members of council may this afternoon ask that the provision be stricken from the charter amendments which will be reported by the city attorney. Those who are still for the proposed change will make a stubborn fight if any attempt is made to strike the popular election amendment from the list. It is said that those who do not favor the change may ask for a compromise by having the amendment not to go into effect until next year.

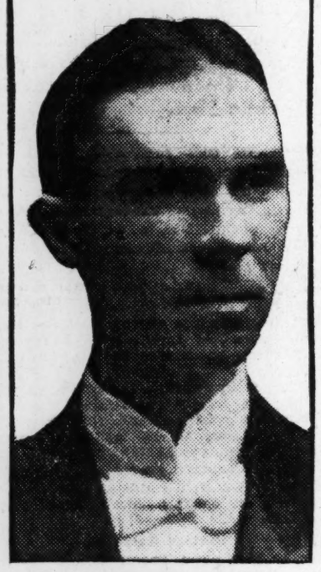

The finance committee will report the June apportionment sheet, and it will probably be adopted without any changes. The sheet was published in The Constitution last week.

There will be two elections for vacancies on the board of education. George M. Hope will succeed T. D. Meador in the sixth ward, and W. D. Willingham will succeed J. M. Stephens in the seventh ward. Both Mr. Stephens and Mr. Meador resigned.

CONSUL FOR ATLANTA APPOINTED BY CUBA

Charles H. Whittington Will Represent That Government in This City.

The importance of Atlanta as one of the great trade centers of the south is evinced by the recent appointment of a consul to the city by the Cuban government in the person of Charles H. Whittington, of 516 St. Charles avenue. The new appointee will be the only representative of Cuba in this section of the country. Last Saturday's mail brought him a communication from Fernando Figueredo, secretary of the treasury of Cuba, telling him of his appointment and offering heartiest congratulations. The object of the Cuban government in appointing a consul is to facilitate commercial transactions between the two countries. As Atlanta ships a considerable amount of machinery, including automobile parts and sugar-making devices, to the island, this step is most important.

Mr. Whittington is secretary and treasurer of the Guarantee Live Stock Company, which owns a large ranch at Camaguey, Cuba, and secretary and treasurer of the Aurora Colony Company, a branch of the Citrus Fruit Company.

FINE WORK BY Y. W. C. A. AT GEORGIA NORMAL

Largest Organization in State Held Annual Meeting in Atkinson Hall.

Milledgeville, Ga., June 5.—(Special.) Today at 4:30 p. m. the annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college was held in Atkinson Hall. This is the largest organization of the kind in the state of Georgia, and occupies a position of commanding influence in all departments of the college life.

Miss Alice Napier, professor of mathematics, as advisory committee of the faculty, has devoted much time and thought to the work, and the students themselves have furnished able leaders in the persons of Miss Lucile Pharr, president; Miss Sara Steele, secretary; Miss Vivian Tilly, treasurer, and others equally efficient. The report of the retiring president showed that the total number of members enrolled during the past year has been 509. The amount of money raised has been $545. This has been used for local, social and religious work, and for contribution to the State and National Young Women's Christian Association and for the support of Miss Fitch, a Young Woman's Christian Association secretary in Shanghai, China.

Miss Flonnie Parrish, the president-elect, received official recognition from the retiring president. Addresses were made by two alumnae of the college, formerly officers in the association, Miss Lili Culbertson and Miss Lizzie May Holland. A greeting was received from another alumna, Miss Louise Smith, now under appointment for missionary work in China.

This quiet, unstudied but impressive service indicated the strong religious influence which pervades the college. Thirty-five students from the college have united with the churches of Milledgeville during the last three months.

NEEDS OF MODERN GIRL AS EDUCATOR SEES THEM

By Isma Dooly.

Atlanta is rapidly becoming an educational center, and there are at present established in the city, besides the public school system and the Georgia School of Technology, a branch of the university, a number of private schools for both boys and girls. All of these meet some educational call; stand for the type of education certain parents may desire for their children, but there was a call for another school, and coming as the response is the announcement that Mrs. Robert Cunningham will open a school for girls here in September.

The announcement is of distinct educational interest, since few pedagogists in the south are better known, and few have had the same advantages of study and experience.

Mrs. Cunningham is the daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Eberhart, of Alabama, and represents a family of prominence, distinguished for their scholarly attainment. She is a first honor graduate of Kemper Hall. Later, she studied and traveled abroad under the best auspices and then entered the University of Berlin, specializing in pedagogic psychology. Among her instructors there were Dr. Otto Goldsmith, Dr. Hoffman, Dr. Lamers and Dr. Weltzel.

While in the city of Berlin Mrs. Cunningham resided in the family of the questor of the university, Herr Polenz, whose wife, Frau Aldia Polenz, had been for years the special instructor of the present Emperor Wilhelm and the other little princes of the royal family.

At the American embassy in Behren-Straffe, Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft Davis, noted for their eminent social gifts, attracted many distinguished people whose personal acquaintance Miss Cunningham enjoyed. Among these were: Max Miller, Wagner, Joachim, Lili Lehman, King Christian IX of Denmark, the Empress Frederick, Minnie Hauck, then Kammerdaugerin, and many other remarkable persons.

At the Sarbonne.

In Paris, Mrs. Cunningham continued her studies, passing the Sarbonne examination, and enjoying to the fullest extent the art galleries, grand opera, Theater Francais and other advantages of the French capital. Returning to America, she was prepared to assume with her father the conduct of the Episcopal Diocesan school in Montgomery, Ala., where for ten years the best people of that city patronized the school.

With methods far in advance of his day her father, Dr. Everhart, gave an impetus to the educational development of Alabama. Mrs. Cunningham succeeded her distinguished father as principal of Hamner Hall until her marriage, sending forth from her instruction most of the present social leaders of that cultured city.

Unique School.

Her school here will be unique. It will stand for life, preparatory and home-preparatory work, as well as for the academic training necessary to enter college. The studies of the children will be vitalized by love, gentleness and enthusiasm, and the faculty will include a group of scholarly people.

Mrs. Cunningham's Plans.

In discussing the justice of the charge that many of the young women of the day leaving school are inefficient, and the charge that this is due to the superficial educational methods in the so-called fashionable school, Mrs. Cunningham was most interesting. She related the incident of a mother who stated, on entering her daughter at a boarding school, that she did not want the child to learn too much, because girls who knew much were not social successes.

"Thank God! there are not many of these mothers, said Mrs. Cunningham. "Let such hark back to Job, who cried, 'The thing that I feared is come upon me!'

"Such mothers are all short-sighted, though their hearts may be tender and loving. They have but to look into the expressionless faces of the uneducated mountain women of 30 and 40, to find that an undeveloped mentality is the favorable soil for wrinkles, sallow skin and faded eyes.

"They have but to study the countenances of the intelligent, cultivated, thinking women of our great cities to find that youth abides in the bright eyes, the uplifted head and the sweet mouth of her who uses her brain power and brings it to fairer summits of learning. With such a woman age loses its hold upon the very fibres of her face, and youth sits enthroned. After all, the right school is the one that is a genuine simple home for the earnest child to develop its latent powers. The right school is the one that works from the spirit out; that environs the plastic character with an atmosphere radiant with truth, joy, ease and mirth; one that avoids the deadly levelling proccesses.

Dr. Lindsay Quoted.

"This is distinctly an age when educational equipment is absolutely necessary to man and woman who desire to be participants in the forces making for higher civilization," continued Mrs. Cunningham.

"The director of the School of Philanthropy in New York, Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, says: 'There has come into American life during the past decade a change in the social attitude of mind towards children, the like of which is not true of any other country, or of any previous period.' Shall we in Atlanta fail in recognizing the fact that our children are entitled to such valuation? Shall the child of poverty, the defective child, the blind child and even the delinquent child, receive the devoted labor and interest of our social leaders, while their own daughters are denied a full development of their mental powers—a free expression of dormant ability and to training that places them in the only aristocracy that American institutions recognize—the aristocracy of service to mankind?

Atlanta's Spirit.

"Atlanta is a marvelous city! Its people are semi-conscious of an attraction, a subtle something, that has become known everywhere as the 'Atlanta Spirit.'

"There is a reason for this: Atlanta attracts the constructive citizen, and makes him her own! Atlanta is a sort of magnet that draws to its hospitable thoroughfares the advanced thinker, the business imagination, and the social developer. Her young souls have demanded with irresistible force this school for the satisfying of its hopes and desires, and for the fulfillment of its subconscious dreams. These new souls are asking for a new educational propaganda which will contemplate nothing less than focusing upon the individual the entire rare knowledge in its adaptation to common life. And this must be done, not by taking the boy or girl away from the family, still less by alluring visions of inaccessible rewards and distant distinctions, but by dignifying the everyday life.

"What our boys and girls want is to learn how to be happy at home; how to keep well; how to be useful in their own sphere; how to transform household tasks into a service radiant with content; how to make home life artistic how to lift burden from tired shoulders, and how to bring the spirit of Jesus Christ into every act of their lives. Truly, the dawn is at hand! The children of today are unconsciously stretching out their eager hearts for an education that will make good the purest and noblest ideals of Christian womanhood."

NEW MANAGER ARRIVES FOR COMPANY AT LYRIC

There is a possibility that Hugh Cardoza is spending his last summer in Atlanta. He doesn't want to leave, for he likes Atlanta better than any place he has ever been, and he has been in Atlanta for eight years and in Richmond the balance of the time he has been on earth.

It looks as if Mr. Cardoza is to be given an assignment that will take him away from Atlanta. He was to have had his first vacation in seven years last summer, but it didn't happen, and now it is noised around that he is to have a permanent vacation from the city, after the New Year. And he doesn't want to go.

The DeHaven sextette, the headliners of the Forsyth this week, is conceded to be the very best "girl act" in vaudeville. It was originally presented with Carter DeHaven, now a musical comedy star, and it has been kept intact, with a new star, Sydney C. Gibson, as the feature and five of the prettiest girls ever seen on a local stage.

Harry Sloan, one of the brightest and best known directors of dramatic combinations, has reached Atlanta to assume the management of the Emma Bunting Company at the Lyric. Mr. Sloan succeeds Ed Rice, who has been here with the company since its opening and who has earned a much-deserved vacation.

Mr. Sloan has frequently made Atlanta as advance representative and as manager of companies playing the Grand, and is one of the most popular of that clan. He expects to introduce a number of innovations in the stock season at the Lyric.

Miss Emma Haynes, of the Lyric Stock Company, gave an exhibition of gameness at that theater last week which few members of her audience realized. On Friday night she stumbled going down the steps of her boarding house and fell to the ground, cutting a long and deep gash in her face, making an extremely painful wound. Going to the Tabernacle infirmary, she had the wound bandaged, and then went on the stage, filling her part during the rest of the week.

Announcement was made this week of the success of William Brady, one of the Independent producers in securing a number of new stars for productions this season. His list includes James K. Hackett, Arnold Daly, Virginia Harned, Henry E. Dixie, Amelia Bingham, Guy Bates Post and Andrew Mack, all to appear in new plays.

INDUSTRIAL WORK PROVES A SUCCESS

New Branch of Albany School Has Attracted Wide Attention.

Albany, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—The first year of an interesting experiment in the negro branch of the Albany public school system has just been completed, and the results are highly gratifying. In fact, they are so gratifying that the work will not only be continued, but extended.

At the beginning of the fall term of 1909-10 the school board established an industrial department in the negro academy on Mercer street. It was arranged to teach the girls cooking, plain and fancy needlework, etc., and the boys carpentry and woodworking. During the past few days there has been on exhibition in one of the rooms of the academy a display of the school's work in the industrial department, and it has attracted a great deal of attention, showing splendid results. Tomorrow afternoon a number of the ladies of the community will visit the school for the purpose of examining the exhibit.

HIGH LICENSE BAN PUT ON NEAR BEER

Asheville Council Decides to Knock Out the Drink.

Asheville, N. C., June 5.—Panic-stricken by the action of the local board of aldermen which last night placed the annual tax for "near beer licenses at $1,000, thirty-two "soft drink" emporiums closed their doors today, in the hope that the city fathers will relent and restore the former tax of $250, or that the summer influx of thirsty souls will be such as to warrant later acquiescence in the new enactment.

The action of the board was the outcome of strenuous agitation against the "near beer" saloons, in which the W. C. T. U. and Judge J. C. Pritchard, of the United States circuit court, took a prominent part. It was argued that the low license tax of $250 had resulted in an alarming growth of undesirable "near beer" establishments where the state prohibition law was being secretly violated.

Many of the "soft drink" men declare that the profit on near beer is so small that the payment of the thousand dollars tax would be practically impossible.

WORK ON HOTEL WILL SOON BEGIN

Actual work on the erection of the $500,000 apartment hotel which Joseph Gatins is to erect at the corner of Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue, will be begun within the next month. Plans for the building have already been completed, Architect W. L. Stoddard, of New York, is in the city to get bids from local contractors and the contract will be let during the present month. The building must be ready for occupancy not later than September 1, 1911. Bids for the work will be closed on June 20.

Ever since Mr. Gatins decided to build the hotel more than three months ago, Architect Stoddard, who drew the plans, has had ten men working day and night in his hurry to have them completed at the earliest possible moment. The vast amount of work necessary to finish the plans is shown by the fact that 30 sheets of general drawings, covering even the minutest details of the building had to be prepared. The specifications upon which the contractors will make their bids contain more than 250 pages.

THOMASVILLE BOASTS OF BEING DEBT FREE

City in Fine Shape Financially. Bonded Debt Is Very Small.

Thomasville, Ga., June 5.—(Special.) From a financial standpoint the city of Thomasville is in as fine condition just now as any town well could be. In proportion to its taxable property its bonded debt is small, so small, in fact, that a bond tax of 25 cents on the $100 pays all interest as it falls due and has in a few years past paid off one issue of bonds amounting to over $15,000, and has the cash on hand to take up as many more, but none are maturing and the holders of those not due decline to present them, so the money is held on deposit at 3 per cent.

The city owns its waterworks and electric light plants and these, besides furnishing all the water used by the fire department, for street sprinkling and various other public purposes, lights for the streets, city hall, police barracks, etc., yield a net income to the city in actual cash, over and above all expenses of more than $5,000 per annum. Substantial improvements are almost continually being made to the streets, and yet with all this the total tax rate on property is only 1 per cent, including bond and school tax

FEDERATION OF LABOR TO MEET IN SAVANNAH

B. Lee Smith, of Atlanta, President, Will Leave Next Monday.

The State Federation of Labor will be convened in annual session in Savannah Wednesday, June 15, and will be in session the remaining days of that week. B. Lee Smith, of Atlanta, is president of the state federation and he will leave for Savannah next Monday.

Present indications are that the coming annual session will be the largest and most important held in the state since the formation of the state federation. Delegates will be in attendance from almost every city in the state, and there will not be a union in the state without representation when the convention is called to order.

Atlanta will send something like forty delegates to the meeting, while as many more organized workingmen of the city will go down, as well as a large number of ladies.

BEAUTIFUL WOODHAVEN, WHERE THE BANKERS WILL BE ENTERTAINED

Three views of Woodhaven, where the Bankers will be entertained Tuesday: The terraces leading down to the fountain; the broad walk leading tot he sun-dial; the gardens at the top of the terraces.

One of the brilliant social entertainments of June will be the reception at which Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox will entertain at Woodhaven Tuesday afternoon in honor of the Georgia Bankers' Association, which will meet here this week.

There will be five hundred delegates to the convention, and they will be delightfully entertained. Prominent citizens have tendered the use of their automobiles to the visiting bankers, and they will meet at the Kimball house Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. After a ride around the city they will go to Woodhaven from 5 until 7 o'clock.

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. Maddox is one of the handsomest in the south, and they know well the art of ideal hospitality. The entertainment will be in the nature of an al fresco party, the guests to be served to refreshments on the sloping lawns; on the grounds marking the entrance to the terraces, and on the opposite side of the terraces around the tea house.

The walk from the house through the pergolo is one which presents the prettiest picture at present, the columns of the pergolo now festooned with honeysuckles and blooming vines and at the base clusters of blooming flowers. The terraces are now radiant with vari-colored flowers, and the trees and shrubbery have put forth their fullest bloom.

Mr. and Mrs. Maddox will be assisted in entertaining by a number of their friends.

STATE'S BANNER GRAIN COUNTY

Sumter Boasts of Harvesting Record Crop.

All the Fields No Longer Planted in Cotton---The Planters of That Prosperous Section Are Thoroughly Alive to Crop Diversification.

Americus, Ga., June 5.—(Special.) An automobile trip of a hundred miles about Americus, a trip easily made in half a day, is of the greatest interest just now and one calculated to make the onlooker think that he is traversing the great grain regions of the west rather than coursing through the cotton fields of Georgia.

But all the fields here are no longer cotton fields; hence this story.

The farmers of Sumter are now thoroughly wedded to the theory of diversified crops, and right at this time they are in the midst of the greatest grain harvest ever known in the history of this section of Georgia.

The oat crop—the finest ever produced here—is being gathered, and the method of doing this is so entirely different from the old-time reaphook process as to cause many to marvel at the progress made. The days of the reaphook have passed away.

Big Engines in Fields.

Now, on nearly every large farm in Sumter the big motor engine pulling the latest improved reapers and binders across the fields of waving grain do more and better work in a day than could a half hundred negro laborers applying the old method of cradle and reaphook.

And only one man is required to do all the work.

These huge machines, driven by gasoline power, are very generally used now on the farms of Sumter county, and with a reaper cutting in its wake from 15 to 18 acres of oats or wheat are cut and bound in a day.

The work is done perfectly; so well, in fact, that a chicken following the binder to pick up the waste grain would actually starve.

The grain is cut, tied tightly in bundles and piled neatly; all the work of the machine.

Acreage Is Largest Ever.

Owing to this improved method of harvesting grain the acreage planted in oats in Sumter is vastly increased—ten fold, in fact, and fields of 25 to 100 acres of waving grain can be seen in every farm about Americus.

And the yield, as stated, will be enormous. Already the crop here is more than half harvested, and the yield will average 30 to 40 bushels per acre, it is said, while on lands highly fertilized a yield of even 100 bushels per acre is fully assured the farmer.

Ten thousand bushels of oats is the estimate put upon the splendid crop of John W. Kelly here. Hhe has nearly 200 acres in oats and competent judges assert that the poorest of these will yield 35 bushels per acre, while 100 bushels will be cut in the rich bottoms.

This great oat field was well fertilized with Peruvian guano and the yield in oats will be enormous. It is probably the largest field in the county and among the best, considering the acreage.

Sumter's Crop Is Immense.

Thomas D. Hooks has sixty acres in oats, E. C. Parker probably seventy-five, J. C. Parker fifty, while scores of other farmers have fields ranging from twenty to fifty acres. Forty bushels will be an average yield, while many fine fields will produce 100 bushels.

The oat crop of Sumter county this year will probably reach the unusual figures of 250,000 bushels, and will not be surpassed by that of any county in the state.

Stephen Ford Dead.

New York, June 5.—Stephen Van Rensselaer Ford; author, editor, composer and critic, a member of one of the oldest families in the central part of the state, died today at his home here. He was 74 years old. For many years Mr. Ford was connected with the Methodist Book concern, in an editorial capacity, and had been assistant editor of the Methodist Review. He composed several battle hymns which were sung by the Union army. A widow, two daughters and a son survive him.

LADY PRINCIPAL GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Albany School Board Smashes Precedent.

Institution in Existence Twenty-Five Years Has Never Had a Lady Teacher at Its Head.

Albany, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—The Albany school board has smashed precedent by electing a lady to the principalship of the grammar school, which is attended by 75 per cent of the white children in the city schools. The school has been in existence more than twenty-five years, and never before has a lady been its principal.

The principal of the past school year did not apply for reelection, and there were numerous applicants for the place, which is regarded as a desirable one. A committee from the board selected to sift down the number of applications reported two, one that of a gentlemen and the other that of Miss Eloise Harrell, at present a teacher in the Cordele public schools.

The board elected Miss Harrell. She is not unknown here, having taught one of the grades of the grammar school several years ago. It is the belief of the superintendent and school board that she is in all respects capable of managing the school which has for a quarter of a century been presided over by men. She will have a dozen teachers under her.

Disabled Schooner in Tow.

Baltimore, June 5.—A dispatch from Cape Henry to the Maritime Exchange here reports as entering the capes in tow of the steamer Danubian, bound for Newport News, the schooner Mary L. Crosby, reported from Beaufort, N. C., yesterday as south-southeast of Diamond Shoal lightship partly dismasted and leaking and asking assistance. The Crosby is from Wilmington, N. C., lumber laden, bound north.

THROUGH WATER ROUTE TO WEST

From Columbus Is Now Practical Reality.

River Business Is Picking Up. Commerce on Chattahoochee Growing in Importance--New Gulf Steamer.

Columbus, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—Following a period of several years in which commerce on the Chattahoochee was stationary, if not actually on the decline at times, river business has picked up remarkably in recent months, and the wharf scenes are now like those of many years ago.

Conditions have improved so materially that another steamboat is to be placed on the river by the Merchants and Planters' line, and it is announced that the service between Apalachicola, Fla., at the mouth of the river, and New Orleans is to be strengthened, another boat being added to the coastwise line.

Columbus' through water route to the western markets, which was discussed in a theoretical way for so many years, is now a practical reality. Much heavy freight, such as grain and provisions, is now shipped to Columbus from western points via the Mississippi river, the gulf line steamers and the river boats plying between this city and Apalachicola. A systematic effort is being made by the steamboat companies to increase this through business, and their confident expectation of a material increase is shown by the plans to enlarge the steamboat service. L. N. Smith, president of the Merchants and Planters' Steamboat Company, is in personal charge of the situation, and is working out the details of the through service.

DR. HOGAN PREACHES TO MERCER STUDENTS

Brilliant Audience Listened to Great Discourse.

Entire Faculty and Student Body Attended in Body--Mercer's Exercises to Continue Through Week.

Macon, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—Throngs of people attended the annual commencement sermon of Mercer University at the First Baptist church here today. Rev. W. A. Hogan, of Agnes, Ga., delivered the sermon. "The Great Apostle and His Great Message" was the topic used by the speaker. He referred to Paul dealing with the apostle as the great thinker. It was a very powerful sermon, holding closely to Paul's theme, Christ and Him crucified.

A specially arranged program of music was rendered. The entire faculty of Mercer, in all departments and the student body, the graduating young men and their friends filled the large church auditorium to overflowing.

Tomorrow at 10:30 the oratorical contest for the Hardeman medal will occur at the college chapel. At 5 in the afternoon the senior class exercises will occur on the campus and at 8 o'clock in the evening the annual champion debate will be held at the chapel.

Jap Prince at Washington.

Washington, June 5.—Semi-social and political in character will be the visit to Washington this week of Prince Fushimi No Miya, cousin of the emperor of Japan, and his wife. Ostensibly their visit has no significance and is merely part of a world tour which the distinguished couple are taking. Prince Fushimi is a sailorman with an excellent war record behind him. As an incident to his visit to Washington he is to inspect the naval gun factory here.

NEAR LYNCHING AT MACON DEPOT

r om pt Interference by Police Stopped Trouble.

Bill Davis and His Wife, Negroes, Insulted Ladies on a Car---Blacks Were Promptly Set Upon by Determined White Men.

Macon, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—A lynching was narrowly averted at the Union depot this afternoon when Bill Davis, a negro, accompanied by his wife, pushed Mrs. A. M. Freeman and her daughter aside in an East Macon street car.

C. F. Haden, a young man accompanying Mrs. Freeman and her daughter, resented the negro's thrust at them and attacked Davis, with the result that the black was knocked into the street.

Lewis Cranford, a bystander, jumped into the fracas and slashed Davis so frightfully with a knife that the negro ran. Minnie Davis, the negro's wife, entered the conflict and fought at this stage. Cranford chased the negro into the Brown House and knocked him to the floor, cutting him six or seven times.

Officer Interferes.

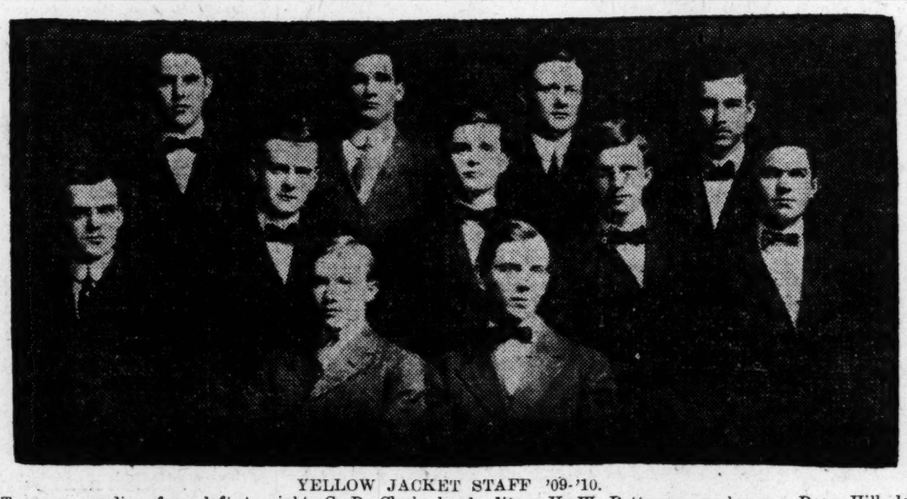

At this point Patrol Officer Charles Jordan interfered and took charge of both the combatants and the negro's wife.

Lester Cranford was released on a summons and the negro and his wife were sent to police barracks.

The officer's quick interference stopped a score of other men from attacking the negro man. His injury will not prove fatal. He was released on collateral at police station and cases of fighting were lodged against him, his wife and Cranford.

The young man who accompanied Mrs. Freeman and her daughter escaped in the excitement and did not show up again. He was himself injured by the negro.

"THE YELLOW JACKET," TECH MAGAZINE COMPLETES A MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Top row, reading from left to right, C. R. Clark, local editor; H. W. Patterson, exchanges; Dean Hill, locals; E. F. Chandler, athletics. Middle row—W. W. Wright, assistant business manager; W. R. Howard, business manager; J. W. Ivy, editor-in-chief; S. C. Simmons, business manager; G. T. Marchmont, alumni editor. Bottom row—I. M. Auld, staff artist; M. W. Howard, assistant business manager.

The Yellow Jacket, the monthly magazine published by the students of the Georgia School of Technology, closes the most successful year of its history with the appearance of the "commencement issue," which will come from the press June 8.

The magazine, which the board of editors have put out this year, would be a credit to any literary school in the south, and is perhaps the best magazine put out by a technical school in the country.

A very popular feature has been a series of engineering, articles which, while they have dealt with technical subjects, the writers have so handled as to make highly interesting and comprehensible to the uninitiated in such lines.

But the magazine by no means confines its work to the engineering field: many articles, stories, and poems of unusual literary worth, measured by the standard of the best products of the college magazines, have appeared in its columns.

The staff this year deserves a great deal of praise and credit for their brilliant work.

I. W. Ivy, editor-in-chief, comes from Boston, Ga., and is a member of the civil section of this year's graduating class. Mr. Ivy enjoys the distinction of being the first man to serve as editor-in-chief for two successive years.

S. C. Simmons, an East Point boy, has held the position of business manager for the past two years, and under his management, the business end of the magazine has been very successful. Mr. Simmons is a member of the senior class.

The advertising manager, W. R. Howard, who is an Atlanta boy, deserves much credit for the part he has taken in building up the advertising end. He is a member of the junior class.

H. C. Clark, the head of the local department, is also an Atlanta product, and has done much toward the success of the paper. He graduates this year.

E. F. Chandler has done good work in handling the athletic department during the past year. Mr. Chandler finishes his course this year, but expects to return for post-graduate work.

Dean Hill and H. W. Patterson, both football men of note, are also members of the staff, and are doing good work for the paper. Mr. Hill is connected with the local department and Mr. Patterson handles the exchanges. Both take their degrees next year.

W. C. Wright and M. W. Howard have ably assisted the business managers. Mr. Howard graduates this year, while Mr. Wright is a member of the junior class.

I. M. Auld is the staff artist, and is well qualified for this position, as his work shows.

G. T. Machmont, '07, is the alumni editor. Mr. Machmont is at present located with the Western Electric Company, this city.

COUNCIL WILL ORDAIN PARKER FISHER TONIGHT

Services Will Be Conducted at Central Congregational Church.

At the Central Congregational church tonight at 8 o'clock the ordination of Parker W. Fisher will take place, a council of the Congregational churches of Georgia, Florida and Tennessee being present.

Mr. Parker has been a student in the Congregation Theological Seminary at Harrford, Conn., for the past two years, and previous to that was a student for two years in the Theological Seminary in this city. He has been called to a church at Hindman, Ky., and also to take charge of the work in the industrial school located there.

The churches composing the council are as follows: Central Immanuel, Union Tabernacle, Marietta Street, and Pilgrim, of Atlanta; Union, of Demorest, Ga.; Union, of Jacksonville, Fla.; East Lake, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Pilgrim, of Knoxville. The council convenes at 4:30 o'clock, at which time the candidate will be examined.

The public exercises, or the ordination, will occur in the church at night. Rev. A. F. Sherrill, D. D., will preach the sermon.

Woodmen Hold Exercises.

Macon, Ga., June 5.—(Special.) Local Woodmen of the World held solemn memorial exercises this afternoon in honor of the dead of the order passing here during the year. A monument to one of the late members was unveiled in Fort Hill cemetery at the ceremony concluding the exercises.

Bibb Superior Court.

Macon, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—The larger number of more serious crimes remaining untried on the calander of the superior court here will go over tomorrow on account of the work in the criminal branch of the city court. Solicitor General Grace will be engaged in this court during the week.

Turner to Stand Trial.

Macon, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—Allen Turner, young son of A. W. Turner, of this city, goes on trial in Calhoun superior court tomorrow morning for the alleged murder of a negro three years ago. At a previous trial Turner was convicted, but he was given a new trial and admitted to bail. He is now making a strong effort to free himself.

Three Paint Essentials

THE three necessary essentials for right painting are pure white lead ("Dutch Boy Painter" trade-mark)—pure linseed oil—and a painter who knows his business.

¶ When you get these three busy around your place, you can be sure your property will be painted right.

¶ Pure white lead, pure linseed oil, and a painter who knows how to use them, form a combination that is bound to reflect credit upon your property and upon you as the owner. You will get a better painting job, and one that will last longest. As this has been proved by years of experience, white lead ("Dutch Boy Painter" trade-mark) is and has been for a long time the standard paint.

¶ Remember, because you use pure white lead, it is not necessary to paint only white. With pure white lead, and pure linseed oil, your painter can make any color, shade or tint you want—and he mixes it at the time of painting.

Our books on decoration go into the subject in detail. Ask for "Dutch Boy Paint Adviser No. 158." Free.

BIG WARD CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

Mass Meeting of Second and Third Ward Club at Courthouse.

A big mass meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the basement of the court house by the Second and Third Ward Club, and as the president has urged every member to be present, there will probably be a very large crowd in attendance.

The club is one of the largest improvement associations that has ever been organized in the city. It now has something like 4,000 members and the list is being daily added to.

At the last mass meeting several standing committees were appointed to look after public improvements, such as sewers, streets, sidewalks, schools, electric lights, water mains, libraries, etc., and it is for the purpose of hearing reports from these committees that the meeting takes place tonight. Hereafter the club will meet on the first Monday in each month.

"Our club has done a great deal of good," states President George L. Walker, "and we are going to keep up the lick until our section gets everything to which it is entitled in the way of public improvements. We have many of the best residence streets in the city, and our people are among the best citizens and largest taxpayers. We simply went to sleep, but now we have waked up, and the Second and Third Ward Club is going to keep things wide awake from now on. I want all the members to turn out tonight."

Railroad Commission.

Montgomery, Ala., June 5.—(Special.) With the exception of deciding on a site for the new Coast Line depot at Ozark, there is little for the railroad commission to do Monday. The Southern side of the union depot order at Jasper is tied up with an injunction, and the Frisco will hardly have anything to say; the famous brick rate case is practically settled out of court, and the question of a depot at Lanette, on the Western of Alabama, is continued. This is also the case with regard to the depot at Spur.

CHAMPS BATTLE WITH CLIMBERS

Third Game of Series at Ponce Today.

Rogers Works Against Guese. Should Be a Hot Fight---Sentell Leads Champs in Batting. Daley Tops Climbers---Ladies' Day Tuesday.

With the score standing one and one between the Climbers and the Crackers in the present series, the two teams will line up in battle array upon the diamond at Ponce de Leon in the third game of the series this afternoon, with both managers confident of capturing the fray.

Manager Jordan will send E. Brown Rogers, the Human Telegraph Pole, to the mound with the hopes that the long one will duplicate his performance against the Pelicans and cop the second winning for the series.

Manager Greminger will send in "Whitey" Guese, the old-timer who appears to be at his best this season, with the hopes of stopping the batting streak which the Crackers have shown in the last couple of games.

The final game of the series will be played on Tuesday, which will also be Ladies' Day, and a goodly crowd of the fair sex is sure to be on hand to witness the game.

The following batting figures of the individual players on both teams through the game played Saturday may be of interest:

BATTLING LEARY TACKLES LITTLE

Battling Leary will be in from Chattanooga today and Walter Little is already on the job. And both men are tuned up to concert pitch for their battle Tuesday night before Harry Staten's club at Armory hall.

Not since Heck was a pup has there been a more promising outlook for large Queensberry doings than in this bout. Walter Little has been training for weeks and when Leary was signed to meet him he thanked his stars and redoubled his efforts. Right now he is trained down fine and is fearfully fit. He knows that it is up to him to win over Leary and he will do his best. Little has a good reputation won in many battles in his home-town—Chicago—and his one engagement here was a corker, even though he was pitted against a larger, stronger man.

Leary seems to be a man cut exactly right for Little. He didn't win the name of "Battling" for nothing and his record is bristling with knockouts over first-class men. Around New York, his home, he is regarded as another Nelson.

Staten has nifty preliminaries. In the opener a couple of excellent samples of black ivory—135 pounds—will battle for eight rounds. This is no near-eight-round affair. This pair goes eight rounds at a good clip or no bacon money for them. And they will go it, all right.

In the semi-wind-up Young Moran will meet Jimmy Mack. Moran is an exceptionally willing chap and showed it last night when he mixed with Trader. Mack is another eager young chap and the pair will go at high speed.

This bill appears to be a well balanced one, and it should prove a big drawing card.

RUSSELL FORD WORKING GREAT

Russell Ford, the former Cracker, now with the New York Americans, has developed into the best pitcher in the big leagues. He has won every game that he has twirled this season, nine in all, and has twirled one game against every team in the league and two against Boston and Philadelphia.

Ford has developed since he was a Cracker. When here he had a spitter, but his spitter then only dropped. Now, it jumps either to the right or the left at his command, and it is his wonderful control of this ball that is winning for him.

Arthur Irwin, the veteran scout who was here recently, says that even the umpires are fooled by this spitter, and that they are losing on an average of ten strikes a game on Russ. Ed Sweeney, who is catching Ford, also a former Cracker, stated here in the spring that he had three different signals for Ford's spitter, and they all laughed at him, but now it has proven to be absolutely correct.

RUSSELL FORD.
Whose great twirling is keeping the Yankees in the hunt for the American League penant.

By shutting out Chicago yesterday Ford twirled the Yankees into first place in the American League, and it now looks like the Tigers and the Athletics are going to have a hard fight on their hands to head them off. Stallings has a good team, and with such hurlers as Warhop, Quinn, Ford and Hughes, all of whom are consistent winners, the Yankees seem destined to win a pennant for once.

JEFFRIES PERFORMED BEFORE 500 SPECTATORS

Three Rounds of Speedy Sparring Set the Crowd Wild With Delight.

Ben Lomond, Cal., June 5.—James J. Jeffries performed today before 500 spectators in his training camp gymnasium. Three rounds of speedy sparring with Joe Choynski set the crowd wild with delight.

The pace was so fast that it is doubtful whether Choynski could have gone many more rounds. Jeffries came out of it smilingly. He was in rare good humor, and boxed with his face to the crowd so they could get a good look at him. The gymnasium program included rope-skipping, bag-punching, shadow boxing and a short tug at the chest weights.

Another little sparring match not on the program was the feature of the day. The principals were Jim Corbett and Choynski, who had been enemies since their last fight, in 1889, until they met in Ben Lomond recently. Now they are cronies.

After Jeffries had finished his ring work today John Martin, chief of police of San Francisco, who was down for the afternoon, drew Jeffries aside and asked him to appear in an exhibition in San Francisco on June 11, for the benefit of a fraternal organization.

Jeffries said that he would like to accommodate the chief, but that it would be impossible for him to break training.

Corbett and Choynski overheard the conversation. They at once volunteered their services, offering to appear in a three-round exhibition. Their offer was accepted.

JOHNSON IN TROUBLE WITH HIS MANAGER

San Francisco, June 5.—An open warfare between Champion Jack Johnson and George Little, his manager, started Saturday night and wound up this afternoon, when Johnson told Little that he was discharged. This was the main topic of conversation at the beach today.

Little says that he has an iron-clad contract with Johnson until May, 1911, and he threatens trouble. He says that unless the differences are settled he will stop the fight on July 4.

In spite of the fact that he was discharged, Little insisted on remaining at the door to take the tickets. Not until Johnson, backed by a squad of city policemen, appeared, did Little depart.

According to Johnson, the trouble arose because Little became jealous of Sig Hart.

"Hart is one of my friends," said Johnson. "I've taken him out automobiling with me and Little did not like it. Then he threatened to whip Hart, and I told him that was the end. I don't want any more to do with him. He has not any contract that he can hold me to."

This is the statement issued by Little:

"I have a contract with Johnson that binds him to give me 25 per cent of his profits, and I am authorized to make all contracts for any boxing matches, theatrical shows or anything of the like. The $10,000 that we put up is my money. I will manage Johnson, or there will be no fight, and if I withdraw, they can take that for final."

This trouble delayed the boxing in the afternoon, but Johnson went through with an unusually hard program which included three rounds with George Cotton and Martin Cutler, and two with Dave Mills. At the conclusion of his work, Johnson weighed for the newspaper men, tipping the scales at 212 pounds, the lowest he has weighed since his training started.

SOUTHEASTERN LEAGUE OPENS

Rome, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—All Rome is baseball mad pending the opening of the Southeastern League Monday afternoon at Hamilton Field. On that date Rome will engage the Johnson City Soldiers, and as all the merchants have signified their willingness of closing their stores for the game, it is believed that fully 2,500 people will be in attendance.

Joe Patton, who is managing the Hillites, has corralled a strong bunch, and he and the fans are confident that the Romans will cop the first flag of the Southeastern Association.

Rome plays Johnson City three games, followed by three with Morristown, Tenn., and three with Gadsden. The team then hits the road for 15 games, returning for a double engagement on July the Fourth with Gadsden.

Matthews, a speedy little South Carolinian; Bagwell, a former Cotton States and South Atlantic star; Baumgartner, a husky and speedy youngster from Pittsburg, Tenn., and Douglas, a six-foot speed demon from the woods of Alabama, will do the heaving for the locals.

At first Hal Griffin, formerly of the Atlanta Southern League team, will play; Bridges, of the North Arkansas League, will hold down second station; Reed, a Macon South Atlantic recruit, will preside at shortstop, while Accorsini, formerly of the Virginia State League, will captain the team and hold down third bag. Whitfield, Cooner and Herndon, all sensational players and hitters, will be seen in the outfield. Lyall, an Oklahoma City (Okla.) semi-professional, will do the receiving.

DICK'S DOPUM.

Race Is Close.—The Southern League pennant race is now getting mighty close. Chattanooga is only 59 points ahead of Atlanta, the Lookouts being in first place and the Crackers in fifth. On the outcome of the games the coming week will depend a whole lot just how the teams will stand in the race. Atlanta has a mighty good chance to better her position, and with about five games like the one Saturday, would come mighty close to climbing into first place.

Barons Here Next.—Molesworth and his Birmingham Barons will be the next team to play on the local grounds after the Climbers. Roley Poley Moley's men are here Wednesday for the rest of the week.

Have Good Team.—The Barons have a mighty good team. At least the ball that they have been putting up of late stamps them as worthy of recognition. The perpetrator of this column at the start of the season picked them for second place and they are running mighty strong for that position now.

Moran Going Good.—If Roy Moran, the Crackers' left fielder, can keep up the lick that he has been going at thus far, for the remainder of the season, the Crackers won't have him next year. Moran has all along been one of the best fielding outfielders in the game and this year he has found his batting eye. This coupled with his splendid work on the paths and his fine arm, should net him a big league job without any trouble. The big league scouts could take a worse tip than looking him over.

Broke the Ball.—When Dr. Thomas hit Scotty Walker on the arm Saturday, it broke the ball. At least that is how it looked, for Umpire Eason immediately threw the ball out of play. Oh, you Scotty!

Wetzell Goes.—Wetzell, the third baseman of the Climbers, who has been putting up a nice game at the third station of the Climbers since their arrival in Atlanta, will be shipped to Galveston, in the Texas League, upon the arrival of Yohe, the third-sacker from Kansas City.

The Salary Limit.—Columns upon columns have been written about the dastardly salary limit that is now in vogue in the Southern League. It is a joke and should be amended; $4,000 or $5,000 with 15-men player limit would insure this league of some good teams and better ball playing would naturally insure better attendance, so where would any one be the loser? That is worthy of consideration, ye moguls; think it over.

Matty's Luck.—Harry Matthews drove away the "jinks" that has been following the Atlanta team, by batting to the infield on Saturday. There was plenty of pepper in evidence all during the practice and it continued during the game. Good for you, Harry, keep it up again.

Ladies' Day Tuesday.—Tomorrow will be Ladies' Day at Ponce de Leon, and there is sure to be a large collection of the fair sex at the park.

A Busy Week.—This is going to be a busy week in the sporting world in Atlanta. Montgomery and Birmingham will play the week at Ponce de Leon. The Southern Golf Association tournament will be at East Lake all week. Little meets Leary at Staten's Club Tuesday night and Kitson tackles Fitzgerald at the Monroe Athletic Club Thursday night. Verily, there is plenty doing.

Pepe a Star.—Joe Pepe, the Montgomerly shortstop, is a star of the first water in the fielding line. The little Climber gets everything that comes his way and some of them under the most sensational circumstances. Could he hit, he would be in big league circles right now, and would stay, too.

Buffalo Going Bad.—Buffalo, Billy Smith's new team, is not doing so well thus far. They started out in fine shape on the road, but when they got home the team started going bad and now they are in sixth place, a little over 100 points behind the leaders. But Bill will have his team going soon, never fear; he always does.

Scout Barrett Here.—Charles F. Barrett, scout of the St. Louis Browns, was in Atlanta last night en route to Savannah. Mr. Barrett will run over the South Atlantic League players and will then go to the Texas League.

Rohn Going Good.—Mr. Barrett stated that he saw Dick Rohn, the former first-sacker of the Crackers, while in Joplin the other day. Mr. Barrett stated that Dick was setting the Western Association on fire with his hitting and that Dick had his team at the top of the league and going strong. Dick is managing Joplin.

McMurray Homesick.—Red McMurray, the Crackers' peppery little backstop of last season, who is playing with Denver in the Western League this year, told Mr. Barrett to remember him to all the fans in Atlanta. "Mac" also stated that if there is ever a chance for him to get back in Atlanta that he is going to do so. Evidently the little Texan is homesick or has the Atlanta spirit.

Yankees Lead Americans.—By defeating Chicago yesterday while the Tigers were slipping the third straight to the Athletics, the New York Americans leaped into the lead in the American League. Russ Ford pitched them to victory.

GOLF TOURNEY OPENS TUESDAY

One Hundred and Fifty Players Coming Here.

Ninth Annual Tournament of Southern Golf Association at East Lake---Biggest Field and Best Prospects Yet for Successful Tourney.

Every train is bringing into Atlanta entrants for the Ninth Annual Southern Golf Association tournament, which will be held on the course of the Atlanta Athletic Club at East Lake, commencing Tuesday morning, June 7, and continuing through Saturday, June 11.

This tournament promises to be the most successful and the biggest one that has ever been held in the south. It is confidently expected that in the neighborhood of 150 men will enter the tournament, men from every city in the south and in all walks of life.

The preparations for the reception of the visiting golfers have about been completed and by this afternoon everything will be in perfect readiness for every one. Lockers have been cleaned out, tents have been erected; the final touches have been put on the course, which is in better condition now than it has ever been.

The committees who will have the local end of the tournament in hand are: Reception, Fulton Colville, chairman; T. B. Paine, Lowry Arnold, W. J. Tilson, W. E. Browne, W. R. Tichener, S. C. Williams and E. F. Mayberry. Golf, S. C. Williams, chairman; W. J. Tilson and R. P. Jones. Hotels, W. J. Tilson, W. E. Browne and Lowry Arnold.

One star who can be counted upon as an entrant in the tourney is Laurence Eustis, the star medal player of the Southern Golf Association. Another is J. P. Edrington, of Memphis. Others are Leigh Carroll, W. E. Stauffer, R. G. Bush, Jr., James Bush and W. B. Stewart, of New Orleans; Ellis Knowles, of Pensacola; F. C. Groover, of Jacksonville; Frank Lewis, of San Antonio, and several other cracks from all parts of the south.

The social feature of the tournament will be the annual banquet which will be held at the clubhouse on Wednesday night, at which the contestants only in the play are eligible to participate.

All today the players who have arrived will be out on the course practicing. By Tuesday morning the entire field of entrants will have arrived and play will start.

On Tuesday, the first qualifying round will be held. This will be an 18-hole round, and players will perform either morning or afternoon at the will of the committee. Wednesday morning the qualifying round will be taken up again and the men who make the 32 lowest scores will qualify for the championship. The second flight will be made up of the players who made the 16 lowest scores on Tuesday immediately following the 32 who qualified for the championship. The third, fourth and fifth flights will be made up of players next in order, by sixteens.

On Wednesday afternoon match play rounds begin in the championship only, and the first matches will be played.

Thursday morning there will be match play all up and down the line. The championship players go ahead with the second round. The defeated sixteen in the first match round of the championship class from the first flight play their first match round, and initial match rounds are also played in the lower flights.

Thursday afternoon all flights continue at match play.

Friday is given over to the semi-finals in all match play events and to the annual handicap. Either of these can be played morning or afternoon.

On Saturday comes the wind-up, with the finals in all events.

$34.59 YOUR SHARE OF MONEY IN COUNTRY

The Per Capita Has Increased Fourteen Cents in a Month.

Washington, June 5.—Treasury officials figure out that if all the money in circulation in the United States were divided equally, every man, woman and child would have $34.59. This is 14 cents per capita more than they should have had by the same process of reasoning a month ago. Compared with a year ago there was on June 1, $14,000,000 more money in circulation and yet strange as it may seem, the per capita was 42 cents less. This, it is said, is due to the increase in population, it being proportionately more than the growth of the circulating medium. The general stock of money in the United States on June 1, was $3,382,284,000, of which $298,076,537 was held in the treasury as assets of the government.

NORMAN MACK TALKS OF 1912 CANDIDATES

New York, June 5.—Mayor Gaynor of this city; Governor Harmon, of Ohio and former Governor Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, at the present time are the most conspicuous possibilities for the democratic nomination for president in 1910, in the opinion of Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, chairman of the democratic national committee. While making it clear that he is not giving aid to any particular candidate, Mr. Mack said here tonight that he is interested in the record Mayor Gaynor is making.

"I find democrats everywhere discussing the mayor," said Mr. Mack. "His readiness to do the right thing at the right time has already demonstrated that he can be trusted to administer safely the business of the country.

"But there are many good candidates this year and we never had a more encouraging outlook. Governor Folk is a good man, and a strong man, and I am glad he has come out openly as a candidate. The platform he has outlined is a good one, but, of course, I cannot say whether the national convention will adopt it. Governor Harmon is another strong candidate.

"I hardly think Mr. Bryan will run again in 1912. We do not expect him to run, and I do not think he expects to be a candidate. Mr. Bryan is a young man, however, and there is no reason why he should not lead the party in 1916."

225 CASES ON DOCKET OF THE CUSTOMS COURT

Judges of New Tribunal Will Begin to Hear Argument on Tuesday.

Washington, June 5.—With 225 cases on its docket as a starter the latest federal court, the United States court of custom appeals, will begin business Tuesday.

On that morning the five judges of the new court will begin to hear arguments in cases on the calendar. It is expected that the entire membership of the court will be present. It consists of Presiding Judge Robert H. Hunt, of Montana; James E. Smith, of California; Orion M. Barber, of Vermont, and Marion deVries, of California.

Although there are 225 cases docketed in the court, preparations for hearing, such as the filing of records and briefs, hae made it possible for the clerk of the court, Arthur B. Shelton, to place only 108 on the calendar for argument at this time.

These cases have been gathered from all over the country. Importers and the government, when not satisfied with the decisions of the board of general appraisers, had taken cases into the district courts, the circuit courts and the circuit courts of appeals of the United States. By law, these were transferred to the docket of the court of appeals. In addition, many cases have been brought direct from the board of general appraisers.

The cases to be heard include most of the varieties that arise out of the application of tariff laws. Most of them relate to the collection of customs under the Dingley law, but many call for an interpretation of language in the Aldrich-Payne tariff act.

The term of the court which begins Tuesday probably will run through June and July. The court may adjourn then until September or October.

One of the rules permits attorneys before the federal courts or the court of last resort in a state or territory to become a member of the bar either by recommendation by a judge in one of these courts, or upon motion by an attorney of the customs court.

5 AND 10-CENT STORES ARE INVADING ENGLAND

This American Institution Will Change the Custom of Shopkeeping.

Washington, June 5.—That distinctive American institution, the five and ten-cent store, has been introduced into England, bearing the name of three-pence (6 cents) and six-pence (12 cents) store, and it is believed, according to United States Consul Benjamin F. Chase, at Leeds, that this enterprise, which is run by an American firm, besides being profitable, will change the custom of shopkeeping there.

With the opening recently of a large roomy, three-story, centrally located five and ten-cent store in Leeds, English shoppers were given the opportunity of entering and looking around without being pressed to buy. The English appreciation of this innovation is shown by the interest aroused in the buying public there, crowds of people constantly visiting the store. On the opening day more than 47,000 persons inspected the rooms.

Five such stores now have been opened in the larger cities of England by American enterprises. Leeds is the shopping center of at least one million people.

Farms and Farmers

Address all letters intended for this Department to Col. R. J. Redding, Editor of Farms and Farmers Department, Griffin, Georgia

HOG-RAISING IN THE SOUTH.

I have more than once asserted that of all the omissions of wise policy of which the southern farmer is guilty there is none that is less excusable than his neglect of hog-raising. Next to corn meal and wheat flour, bacon and lard are considered the most indispensable articles of diet that go upon the farmer's table.

The hard-working white man, no less than the hog-raising negro, must have his rasher of bacon—and a pretty thick one at that—two and even three times a day, or he thinks he is in hard luck, if not hastening on to starvation. The profession man, the dweller in town or city, the mechanic, the railroad man—all are lovers of hog-products in some of their numerous forms, not to mention the ham-loving weakness of the women-folks, of both high and low estate.

I am not going to dilate on methods and details of "hog culture" at this time, but wish in a few lines to defend the hog from some of the aspersions that have been cast upon its tastes, character and habits, and to insist that more attention should be given to the health and comfort of this humble domestic animal so much abused while in life and so thoroughly and universally esteemed when brought to the table in one or the other of its forms of usefulness.

The hog has been used as the synonym of meanness, ill manners, gluttony and filth. The man who wants everything in sight is "hoggish;" the man who takes the end seat in the car and forces every other passenger to step over his brogans and squeeze through, is called the "end-seat hog;" "no more manners than a hog" is a common descriptive phrase; "fat as a hog" is often applied to the man of helpless, harmless, over-grown avoivdupois. So it seems that the lowly hog has imitations with two legs only, or is the hog the imitator of the man. I have named only a few of the ugly things that men do, which suggests their resemblance to our much-abused friend, the hog.

The hog is generally considered a filthy animal and pre-disposed to that condition which (beg pardon) is called "lousiness," and it is to these two mistages or errors of the hog that I wish to call attention. I feel strongly inclined to excuse the hog itself and to throw the blame on the man who claims ownership. The brute animal does the best it can under the circumstances, just as the soldiers of the civil war made the most of their environment.

In truth the hog is not naturally a filthy animal if the conditions surrounding it are made as natural as may be practicable. A "pig in a pen" is an anomaly, and the smaller the pen the more pronounced is the duress which prevents the unhappy prisoner from keeping itself and its immediate surroundings in "company order." The hog cannot help itself. Every farmer knows that a bunch of hogs in a pen, with a little "hand-romance," seem to agree upon a few simple rules of behavior and habit. They have a portion of their confined quarters set apart as a sort of "background," appropriated for offensive matters. The hog will certainly show a prompt preference for clean, pure drinking water and clean (as may be) sleeping quarters.

The "Pictorial Cyclopedia of Live Stock" (Periam & Baker) says: "Remember that swine—like man—are universal feeders, and that if allowed to be so, few animals are more cleanly in their habits. They wallow in the mud, at times, it is true, but a mud bath is nature's specific for scurvy and other skin diseases. Swine, also, take a mud bath as a refuge from insects; nevertheless they are careful, if allowed, to thoroughly clean themselves, when dry, against the rubbing post." There, now, you have it. The hog wallows in the mud because he does not have a better bath provided. Its object is to keep cool and at the same time escape the annoying attacks of insects. I suppose that the wild hog prefers clean water to drink and a clean bath when it is wanted. Its shoved-shaped snout enables it to root out a refreshing bed in the fresh virgin soil under the shady foliage.

The most of the hog's ailments and troubles are directly due to the enforced conditions of domestication. The hog doesn't like to be lousy, nor ticky, nor mangy, nor scurvy, nor measly. It can't help from being one or more of these when in the power of a careless man. In a state of nature it is practically free from all these and a hundred other ailments.

The truth is farmers fail of their duty to provide sanitary and hygienic conditions, and in thus failing they act contrary to their own interests. I don't advise a bath room and accompaniments for each hog, but have often thought that a good, convenient pool filled with clean and often-renewed water, properly medicated for the cure of skin diseases, and the destruction of insects, would solve the problem of parasites—such as fleas, ticks, lice, etc. They do have such conveniences north and we certainly do not need them less in the south. We dip sheep for scab, and cattle for ticks; why not dip hogs for the same and for half dozen other things to which domesticated hog-flesh is a constant victim. I have no doubt such a thing would pay for itself and over in one month of that ticky, lousy and mangy weather. Moreover you don't have to catch a hog and dip it—as you must a sheep or calf. They have got sense enough to know what a bath means and what it is good for, and dip themselves.

(1) "FEEDING" COTTON PLANTS. (2) FEEDING CORN PLANTS.

G. T. Burton, Lincoln, Ala.—(1) I have four acres of land that I sowed in oats and peas for two years, and before that it made an average of 1,000 pounds seed cotton per acre. What grade of guano would you use? I have 200 pounds under it now. It is sandy loam, with red subsoil. I have been using about 200 pounds before when I made 1,000 pounds per acre. What and how much would you use under it for the best success?

(2) I have eight acres in corn that was in pasture for twenty years. I have cultivated two years in cotton. I planted with 65 high-grade guano per acre. It is a red, sandy loam. What would you feed with for best success. I have also eight acres of cotton on same kind of land, and with 200 pounds per acre, what would you feed with, and how much in all? It was planted May 15.

Answer—(1) I would have used a guano analyzing about 10—2—3, or of that proportion, applying 400 to 600 pounds per acre and bedding on it. At planting time I would have applied 25 to 30 pounds of nitrate of soda in the furrow with the seed. Or, instead of the 10—3—3, I would have applied a 10—2 acid and potash, say 400 pounds per acre, and at planting 30 pounds of nitrate of soda and at second planting about 50 pounds of nitrate of soda. That would altogether have amounted to 400 pounds analyzing 8.33—2.50—2.50, which is relatively the same as 10—3—3, but about one-sixth lower.

(2) The same applies to the eight acres in corn. That is to say, I would have applied what fertilizer I intended for the corn before planting it, say 300 pounds of 10—2 acid before planting, 30 pounds of nitrate at planting and 62 pounds at first or second planting.

There is nothing that you can apply now or later in the way of "feeding" (as you express it) that will do as much good as it would applied before planting—except nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia. I have insisted on these views over and over again within the last two months.

ROPY MILK.

E. M. Browne, Denver, S. C.—I have two milk cows that have something wrong with their udders. One of them has had something wrong for six or eight months. The milk gets ropy or stringy every two or three weeks, but very little swelling or soreness. It will stay that way for two or three days and then get all right. The other cow has only been affected twice in last month. Once before calving (about two weeks before) and about two weeks after calving. Only one-quarter of her udder was affected, and the same quarter each time.

Answer—Ropiness in milk is due to the presence in the milk of some species of bacterium, or micro-organism, or fungus, which grows and reproduces very rapidly in the milk. The trouble may be removed by thoroughly cleaning every utensil used abut the milk. First, wash thoroughly with soap and water; then scald and place in the sun for several hours, including pails, skimmers, strainers, pans—everything. Also thoroughly clean the room in which the milk is kept. Also, it may be necessary, scald and whitewash the stall or stable in which the cow is kept at night, using water containing 2 per cent of carbolic acid to make the whitewash.

Second, during the handling of the milk keep the hands perfectly clean. Third, wash the teats and udder with warm water before milking. There is no danger from using the milk, even of those that give ropy milk.

To "A. R.," Americus, Ga.—Please refer to the above reply to E. M. Browne. You say you are a reader of The Constitution and do not give your full name, for which I infer that you are not a subscriber. Is that correct?

POTATO "BUGS."

B. F. C., Rome, Ga.—I have had a discussion with a party here as to the eggs that produce the potato bug. He contends that it is an elusive fly that deposits the eggs. I contend that it is the matured turtle-back potato bug. Which is right?

Answer—The correct name of the beetle, commonly known as the "potato beetle," or "potato bug," or "Colorado potato beetle," is Doryphora 10-lineata, the specific name—"10-lineata" referring to the 10 lines. The insects winter underground as adults or pupae, and the beetles emerge early in the spring, immediately mate and the female commences to lay her eggs usually on the under side of the leaves of Irish potato plants. The eggs hatch in a few days and the work of destruction at once commences as the young and growing slugs are very voracious. So soon as these ugly slugs are fully grown they descend into the earth, and there undergo their final change into perfect beetles, and in a few weeks these emerge from the ground, mate and commence egg-laying again. From three to four generations may be developed during the summer, if their appropriate food is abundant (Irish potato, tomato, eggplant, etc.). At the approach of cold weather the last brood, when grown, go into the earth where they remain until early spring, and then emerge as perfectly developed beetles. "Like produces like" is the universal rule in animal life. Flies cannot produce beetles, nor butterflies produce any other kind of insects.

(1) NITRATE ON SWEET POTATOES. (2) CLOVER CULTURE.

U. W. D., Powder Springs—(1) I am using your fertilizer formula for sweet potatoes. I did not add the nitrate of soda, but intend to use it later. Please advise me at what time to apply this for potatoes planted May 15. (2) Please advise me how and when to sow clover to get a good stand. Can we raise our own seed and thus escape the danger of getting objectionable grasses? If so, how is the best way to manage this?

Answer—(1) Make the first application of nitrate at or immediately following the transplanting of the slips, applying 30 or 40 pounds per acre. Divide the remainder into two or three parts and apply 2 to 3 weeks apart, or at convenience, so that all will have been applied by time of laying-by.

(2) Commence getting the land in good condition in time to have it ready to sow in October. Have the surface fine and smooth, sow 15 to 20 pounds of clean seed per acre alone (not with wheat or other grain) and brush in very lightly. There is no difficulty in saving seed in your section. The farmers (some of them) in Polk and Bartow used to (if they do not now) grow clover seed for market. Of course, the best way to manage "to escape the danger of getting objectionable grasses" in clover seed would be to sow pure, uninfested seed. I think you can buy on a guarantee, and have sample tested at Georgia Experiment Station, for seeds of noxious weeds and grasses. (Why not give your name?)

SOY BEANS.

G. W. Burruss, Cumming, Ga.—1. I noticed in a recent issue of The Constitution a letter from A. M. Worden in regard to soy beans. He claims they are better in every way than cowpeas. What do you think of the soy bean as a hay crop or as feed for hogs in comparison with cowpeas? Do you think they would make more and better feed on the same land than peas would up here in north Georgia?

2. Which do you think would be the best variety of clover for this part of the state? Would it do all right to sow with wheat?

Answer—1. I have already and more than once given my opinion of soy beans and especialy in comparison with cowpeas. The proper course to pursue would be to, try a few bushels or pecks and know for yourself. See article in Constitution of April 18, May 2 and 16.

2. The ordinary red clover, I suppose, would do as well as any, on suitable soil in your section. It is not advisable to sow with wheat or any other nurse crop. Such practice is common in the north and northwest, but is not approved in the south.

PLANT FOR NAME.

Mrs. S. F. H., Fayette, Miss.—Will you please tell me through the columns of The Constitution the name of the plant inclosed? It was sent me among other plants several years ago; has never bloomed, but it multiplies rapidly, and for that reason I want to get rid of it if it is of no value in any way, that is, no medicinal properties.

Answer—I regret that I cannot analyze the plant without a specimen flower or seed. Why not send a specimen to the person of whom you got it and ask him for the name? It is a general rule, with but few exceptions, that an unfamiliar plant cannot be analyzed and named unless a specimen in leaf and flower be supplied

COUGH OF HORSE.

G. O. H., McBee, S. C.—I am a subscriber to The Constitution. I have a very fine mare which has had a bad cough for two months or more. She eats well, works every day, keeps in fine fix and the cough does not seem to hurt her, but she is such a valuable animal I am uneasy about her, thinking it might hurt her if allowed to run on. She had the cough last spring a while, but stopped until this spring, and it seems to be worse.

Answer—A cought is not a disease itself, but only an indication of some irritation of the air passages leading from the nostrils to the lungs, and sometimes to sympathy with some stomach trouble. There are several different kinds of cough and the particular character of the cough often indicates the nature and location of the trouble. A short, interrupted cough may be the forerunner of heaves, or broken wind. A good treatment until you find out what is the cause is to steam the nostrils by holding her nose over a pail half filled with boiling water with a tablespoonful or two of spirits of turpentine, or of extract of belladonna. You should describe particularly the character of the cough, when it is most troublesome, whether free or obstructed, what seems to excite or bring on a fit of it.

THUMPS OF PIGS

P. A. Moore, Hatcher Station, Ga.—Mother has two young sows that she got from a neighbor the past spring. They are of the Red Essex strain, and were with pigs when brought home. The pigs came the last of March (one six, one seven), and seemed to do all right for about a month; then began dying with what is called "thumps." They were in a pasture with fresh water. First they began to look thin through loins and hips, at the same time developing a cough, and seemed to be troubled with a lung weakness, living a week or ten days.

Answer—Thumps is otherwise known as palpitation of the heart. It is rather a result of a disease than a disease itself, usually a deranged state of the stomach, the result of feeding too much corn or other food that is deficient in nitrogen. In the early stages, give one or two ounces of Epsom salts or the same of castor oil. Follow this with 5 to 15 drops each of laudanum and tincture of digitalis every 2 or 3 hours until relieved. When the violent symptoms are relieved, feed on new milk and a little oatmeal gruel until the strength is regained. I do not believe in putting pigs in a close pen, on account of the bad sanitary conditions and want of exercise. Do not feed young pigs on corn if you can do otherwise. Oats, shipstuffs, middlings and shorts are all better.

MENINGITIS IN COLT.

Mrs. L. B., Blairs, S. C.—I have a sick colt, about 8 months old, that has been sick for some six weeks, or more. I had a local M. D. with it, and he said it had probably wallowed on a rock or snag and hurt its spine, as he found a sore place over the spine. (I had thought the soreness came from the kidneys). I first noticed it holding its head unusually high, and appearing to be stiff. Next it seemed as if it could not lift its hind feet good, and finally seemed to be paralyzed in all four legs—only worse, if anything, in her hind legs. I keep her swung up, just so her feet rest on the ground good, and rub with all kind of liniments; but she does not improve. Has a ravenous appetite, and looks very bright about eyes or head. Do not see how she could have been hurt. Can you suggest a remedy?

Answer—It is probable that your colt has what is known as spinal meningitis, and that the disease has assumed a chronic form. I am by no means certain, however, that this diagnosis is correct, and it would be advisable, if practicable to do so, to secure the personal services of a veterinary surgeon (not a so-called "horse doctor"). In the meantime, treat as follows: Give it twice a day ½ dram of iodide of potassium dissolved in the drinking waer. You may also give twice a day ¼ dram of iodide of iron, and once a day ¼ dram of nux vomica in its feed. Keep the colt as free from all causes of excitement as may be possible. The sore on the spine is probably the result of a blow or the bite of a horse and is doubtless the cause of the present condition, the spinal cord being the seat of the disease.

RINGBONE ON MULE.

G. D. M., Clarks Hill, S. C.: I have a mule which seems to have what is called "Ringbone." Just above the the hoof on the front feet there seems to be a hard gristle, partially around the ankle, which causes the mule to appear lame, or tenderfooted, which unfits it for work. This growth has been coming for several months and seems to be gradually growing worse.

Answer—"Just above the hoof" would ordinarily be understood as within an inch or two of the upper edge of the hoof; but since you say further that there is a "hard gristle partially around the ankle," and it "seems to have what is called ringbone," I conclude that the disease is not so much the hoof, but is really on the ankle, and it is probably a ringbone on the lower pastern joint. The treatment is as follows: The animal should have rest, the shoes (if shod) removed and the foot pared level. If there is heat in the part keep it wet with a cloth dipped in a solution of ½ oz. of sugar of lead in 1 quart of water and kept tied around the pastern. Continue this for a few days, then rub in a blister ointment compound of 2 drams cantharides, 1 dram bichloride of mercury, 2 ozs. of lard. Rub in well a third of this with the fingers, let it remain 24 hours (keep the mule's head tied up), then wash off and grease with lard. Repeat every second week until three blisters have been applied. If this does not cure then resort must be to firing with hot iron and blisters combined. Rest after the blisters is important.

GREASE HEEL.

J. F. W., Tallapoosa, Ga.: I have a colt lacking three months of being 3 years old, that has something the matter with its feet. It commenced about two months ago with something like the scratches and has developed something like ring hoof. It keeps going up his legs, running yellow water, or matter. Three of his feet are affected. I treated him for ring hoof, first with lye soap, salt and copperas, next a wash of bluestone; then an ointment of pine tar, lard; next glycerine and carbolic acid. His ankles and legs are badly swollen and seem to be very sore. His appetite is good and his hair looks well, but he is loosing flesh.

Answer—I presume that by "ring hoof" you mean what is more commonly called "ringbone." This is a growth of bone on either the upper or lower pastern bones. In ringbone, however, there is no discharge of pus or other fluid. It is more likely that it is what is called "grease heel," because it usually commences at the heels and extends upward. As the disease progresses there is a tendency to form bunches which are called "grapes." The treatment is as follows:

In the early stage apply a poultice—preferably of linseed meal—changing it twice a day until the scurfy part is clean, then rub on daily an ointment of 1 oz. of oxide of zinc and 2 ozs. of vaseline (or lard). If there is any tendency for scruf to form apply the poultice again. Give a dose of 6 drams of Barbadoes aloes, dissolving it in one-half pint of boiling water and adding 2 quarts of cold water. When the physic has operated, give one of the following powders daily in a bran mash: Mix 4 ozs. each of copperas and saltpeter and divide into 24 powders. Give regular exercise and do not feed much corn. If "grapes" appear cut them off with a red hot shovel and apply the oxide of zinc ointment daily.

THEATERS

At the Forsyth.

Deduct the personal popularity of Little Chip and Mary Marble, and there is a show for the Forsyth this week, that is superior to the offering of last week headed by the former favorites, that won the attendance records of the season.

The special feature will be the famous DeHaven Sextette, with Sydney C. Gibson, and five delightful and clever girls, who are prettier than the prettiest seen recently on a vaudeville stage. The act is a miniature musical comedy, with special scenery and half a dozen jingling musical numbers.

Hayward and Hayward, in an original comedy sketch with specialties, will be another of the entertaining cards. Murray, Edwards and Tierney, in their pleasing stunt, "Twenty Minutes in a Rathskeller," will be a novelty. The famous Penderson Brothers will offer a real gymnastic specialty, and the Faust Brothers, who have frequently appeared with minstrel organizations in Atlanta, will offer a pleasing musical act. Tom Smith, an eccentric dancer, and Emma Partridge, an operatic star, will complete the bill.

At the Lyric.

Tonight at the Lyric theater Miss Emma Bunting and her associates will present Henry Arthur Jones' great drama, "The Hypocrites." The rights of the play have been secured by the Bunting company for this week only from Mr. Charles Frohman, who originally produced it in America at the Hudson theater, New York, where it had a long and successful run.

While extremely frank in expressing his views of the social problem, Mr. Jones succeeded in writing a drama that, while it is inoffensive, its very boldness took the critics off their feet and provoked no end of discussion as to its merit and value.

"The Hypocrites" will bring out the full strength of the Bunting company, the star herself being provided with a character that fits her personality well and which will at the same time show her to her admirers in a new light.

At the Bijou.

The week beginning this afternoon promises one of the best shows offered by the Bijou for some time. The Japanese troup headed by Tora, will give a novel juggling and magic act; J. Begard will entertain in singing and talking; Sprague and Dixon, live wire talkers, with a mile of laughs, will furnish lots of fun; and the two Mays in a comedy musical act, will close the bill. Harry Green, who has been laid up as the result of an automobile accident, will resume his old place.

ENRAGED NEIGHBOR ATTACKS W. A. MOULTON

Mrs. May Underwood to Be Given Hearing on Charge of Assault and Battery.

Dalton, Ga., June 5.—(Special.)—"She picked up a big root from under a tree and literally wore it out on me, and I want a warrant for her arrest," said W. A. Moulton, a citizen who lives in the Broadacre section of the county, to 'Squire S. B. Folker. He had reference to Mrs. May Underwood, who also lives in that neighborhood, but their neighborly feeling is somewhat estranged. This was brought about over a dispute of a land line.

From what we are able to learn it came about in this way: A dispute arose over the line, which involved about a 32nd of an acre, and last fall County Surveyer H. C. Hamilton, with the processioners, ran a line and staked it off. This was during the lifetime of James Underwood. For some reason this did not please Mr. Moulton, and harmony has not reigned supreme since the day the line was run, and even before.

The death of Mr. Underwood did not end the contentions, so one day this week Moulton is said to have knocked down some of the stakes. Mrs. Underwood is said to have strenuously objected and told him not to do it, whereupon it is said that Mr. Moulton "gave her a good sassing." This raised the ire of Mrs. Underwood, and it is said that she proceeded, with the blunt instrument, to do him up in good fashion, and he testifies that she did the job well.

Gentleman-like, Mr. Moulton "would not strike a woman," but proceeds town, where he secures a warrant for her arrest, charging her with assault and battery.

Sheriff Gilbert went up Saturday morning and served the warrant on Mrs. Underwood. The trial will come up before Judge Felker Monday morning at 10 o'clock. In talking of the matter, she says she warned him against pulling up the stakes, and when he did she "walloped" him good, and would do it over again if he molested them.

The trial will likely prove most interesting and no doubt will be largely attended.

Tortured by Piles!

Probably no one disease causes so much pain and suffering as piles or hemorrhoids. The victims are often in agony. Each attack seems worse and more stubborn. Work or business is impossible. The nerves are racked, the system debilitated by loss of blood and the end is an operation.

Piles are the penalty of neglect. The one chief cause of this trouble is constipation. When the bowels are clogged the trouble begins. These sensitive, painful tumors are the result. If you are afflicted with piles begin with Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills at once, and get a full free passage of the bowels without pain or griping. Take two of these wonderful little pills at night and two more the next morning. Then take one or two pills every night at bedtime for a few days. You will find that Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills will cleanse the entire system, purify the blood, invigorate the liver and so regulate your boweis that piles will disappear. Physicians use and recommend. They form no habit. You should always keep these little Vegetable Pills on hand. They ward off many ills.

WOMAN THREATENS JUDGE AND ARRESTING OFFICERS

But for the interference of several policemen, Mrs. G. A. Henley, of Bellwood, would probably have attacked single-handed the judge and two arresting officers in the police court Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Henley became angry when Recorder Pro Tem W. H. Preston fined her $5.75 for something her six-year-old son had done at a revival meeting. She thought that County Policemen Pope and Whitfield had made the case against her through spite, and she announced after the decision was rendered that she would not pay the fine.

Judge Preston ordered Mrs. Henley taken in the prisoners' room, and she was being led there by Court Bailiff Cornett when the little boy began to cry and scream at the top of his voice. Mrs. Henley broke away and started towards the bar of justice, screaming dire vengeance. She had taken but a few steps, when Cornett, with the assistance of several other policemen, managed to lead her to the prisoners' room.

An older son of Mrs. Henley later brought in the amount of his mother's fine, and as Mrs. Henley, leading her little boy, passed through the court room, she shook her fist angrily at the two arresting officers and his honor.

The young boy, together with an older lad, Cleo Wallace, were charged with going on a strenuous ride in a buggy behind a mule, while the owner was at a tent meeting. Wallace, who was old enough to be held accountable for his acts, was fined $10.75, while Mrs. Henley was fined under an ordinance making parents responsible for children under ten years of age.

Diseases of Men

My seven years' practice in Atlanta have already proven my methods are successful. If you have BLOOD POISON, VARICOCELE, HYDROCELE, GONORRHEA, GLEET, STRICTURE, SPERMATORRHEA, or SEXUAL WEAKNESS, call and I will examine you personally and advise you just what is needed in your case in order that you may receive a permanent cure. I am treating and curing numbers of others, why not let me cure you? Consultation is free, and all transactions are satisfactory and confidential.
